Reserve Callup Is Given Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, overriding objections from the White House and the Pentagon, has given President Johnson standby authority to call up thousands of reservists for possible active duty in Viet Nam.

Voting 66-21 Wednesday to tie the provision to the pending $58.2-billion annual defense money bill, the Senate heeded arguments that many draft-age youths were joining the Army Reserve and National Guard to avoid duty in the Southeast Asian war.

"We can't permit the six-month reserve training program to become an umbrella to

Sniper Plinks Florida Lawman

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—A sniper shot a police patrolman in the arm early today after officers broke up a crowd of bottle-throwing Negro teen-agers at a drive-in.

Fifteen miles north in Pompano Beach, another sniper took five shots at two patrolmen sitting in a parked car guarding a supermarket where violence erupted in June. Neither was hit.

It was the second straight night of trouble in Pompano Beach. Traffic was blocked off Hammondville Road until midnight and officers armed with shotguns and automatic weapons cleared the streets.

FBI To Help Police Polish Public Image

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI announced today it is sponsoring nationwide conferences during September and October to advise law enforcement officers on ways to polish their public image.

The conferences will consider, among other things, "the urgent need for better police-community relations," the FBI said.

Rebel's Lonely Fight Ends Abruptly

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Earl L. Francis rebelled at civilization for all his 33 years. His lonely fight seemed impossible to win.

A thin, balding man who held a variety of white-collar jobs, Francis left Washington, D.C., to flee the turmoil of 20th-century life, he said.

"I'll never work another eight-hour, six-day week for

Stormy Hearings On Anti-Viet War Actions Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Witnesses whose attorneys marched out of a stormy hearing of the House Committee on Un-American Activities insisted today they will act as their own lawyers.

Jerry C. Rubin of Berkeley, Calif., said he was expressing the views of the dozen witnesses called to testify about their anti-Viet Nam war activities, when he said: "As of now, I'm my own lawyer."

He said all the witnesses would take that stand when called before the committee which had set a noon deadline for them to get new lawyers.

Committee counsel Alfred M. Nittle, asked whether the committee would let them testify without legal representation, said only "we will face that when it comes."

The morning session was devoted almost entirely to testimony of Edwin Meese, assistant district attorney of Alameda County (Berkeley) Calif., who told of activities of a number of witnesses in various anti-Viet Nam war groups.

Most of the witnesses were absent at the start of the day's session, leaving many vacant seats in the front row reserved for them.

Their attorneys stalked out of the hearings room Wednesday in protest against the expulsion of the lawyer for two of the witnesses.

The hearing opened with Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., presiding after an announcement that the acting committee chair-

New Rights Marches in Chicago Due

CHICAGO (AP)—Civil rights forces planned new protest marches after seven hours of discussion failed to produce an armistice to the demonstrations for open housing.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and his top lieutenants tell a meeting of civil rights workers today where and when the next protest parade will be staged.

King, though terming Wednesday's talks "amicable and significant in the future in making Chicago an open city in housing," said, "The demonstrations will continue!"

"We'll continue to keep the issue to the forefront. We made it clear in the meeting there would be no commitments on cessation of demonstrations."

King said the commitments that were brought up in the session were not broad enough to warrant calling off the marches.

City leaders proposed an immediate suspension of the riot-sparking marches to all-white neighborhoods.

King and his aides announced their counterdemands which included civil support of an extension to the Chicago fair housing ordinance which would forbid discrimination by private-property owners as well as real estate firms.

Nurse's Mate Hurts 8 in Hospital Spree

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — A nurse's husband walked into an Arecibo hospital Wednesday night and assaulted eight persons, seriously injuring three of them. His rampage of stabbing, kicking and punching ended when an off-duty policeman shot him in the arm.

Authorities, who could give no reason for the attack, identified the assailant as Victor Quiles, 26. His wife is a nurse at the hospital in Arecibo, 40 miles west of San Juan.

any man," Francis said in 1964. He picked a mile-high peak in the Catalina Mountains, overlooking Oracle, Ariz. For a year Francis, standing 5 feet-5 and weighing 125, worked night and day on a stone and glass cabin.

Up the mile climb where there was no road Francis hauled his building materials and he built a cozy place with electricity supplied by a power generator, running water and other conveniences. Then, he settled back to read, paint and meditate.

It happened to be on land in Coronado National Forest. An eight-foot hole in his backyard was called a gold mine by Francis but the U. S. Forest Service said he trespassed on public lands. Francis replied he would never move.

Dallas Battles Epidemic

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force planes begin systematic spraying of Dallas with insecticide Friday in a massive effort to check the spread of an encephalitis epidemic.

A U.S. Public Health Service official said it would be the first time aircraft have been used to fight such an epidemic.

City Health Director Hal J. Dewlett told a news conference Wednesday that the number of probable cases since July stood

Fund Chairmen Plan Meetings

Division chairmen of the 1966 Pickaway County Community Fund met Tuesday evening with Director Fritz Jacobs to map plans for the coming fund raising drive.

The group designated 7:30 p. m. Sept. 19 as the date for a combined training session for all workers and chairmen. The meeting will be held at the new high school.

A meeting was also scheduled Sept. 22 for all Community Fund workers and chairmen.

The drive will get under way on Sept. 26, with solicitation for advanced gifts and of business and industry. A door-to-door campaign will begin Oct. 3, with followups during the remainder of the week.

RED CROSS offices at Pickaway and Watt Sts. will be utilized as a collection center beginning Oct. 3.

Jacobs reminded chairmen that the goal this year is $43,000, up $1,500 over last year's quota.

Jacobs also announced that any local club or organization that would like guest speakers to talk on the Community Fund, may contact his office.

Various division chairmen at Tuesday's session were Ben Brien, vice chairman of this year's drive; Paul Sarchet, training chairman; J. L. Chilcote, advanced gifts; Dr. Robert Liggett, business; Mrs. Lewis Young, north city solicitation; Maxine Storts, secretary.

Goodyear's AEC Pact Is Extended

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) has extended for three years its contract with Goodyear Atomic Corp. for operation of the AEC's gaseous diffusion plant here.

The Portsmouth plant is the newest of the AEC's three gaseous diffusion plants, and represents an investment of about $765 million. The plant employs about 1,165 persons, and the average annual estimated cost of operation included in the three-year extension is about $32 million.

The plant produces enriched uranium for use in both national defense and civilian programs. Goodyear is also participating in process development and plant test activities aimed at increasing production efficiency.

The initial contract with Goodyear Atomic Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. in Akron, was signed in 1952 shortly after plans for the plant were announced.

A modification of the AEC's current contract with Goodyear Atomic was signed to provide for operation of the Portsmouth plant through June 30, 1970, according to S. R. Sapirie, manager of AEC's Oak Ridge operations.

at 57, with two deaths possibly caused by the virus.

Dewlett quoted health officials as saying the situation has reached epidemic proportions.

Three twin-engine C123 aircraft arrived Wednesday from the 4500th Air Base Wing, Langley Air Force Base, Va., to prepare for the spraying of an insecticide known as Malathion.

The object is to kill swarms of the culex mosquito believed to be the carrier of the St. Louis type of encephalitis which has hit this city of 750,000.

Extraordinarily heavy rains which swamped Dallas in April are cited by health officials as one cause of the epidemic. The excess water created breeding grounds for mosquitoes.

Dr. John Kilpatrick, chief of the Research and Development Clinic, Communicable Disease Center, U.S. Public Health Service, Atlanta, Ga., said Malathion is harmless to human beings.

The colorless, odorless substance kills mosquitoes, flies and cockroaches on contact, he said.

Kilpatrick said the planes would disperse the insecticide over 500 square miles of Dallas and its suburbs from an altitude of 150 feet.

He said the spray would fall to the ground in "extremely fine droplets" and would "cover every square inch of territory where mosquitoes may be."

The aerial spraying is to continue for six or seven days, Kilpatrick said. Dewlett said ground spraying would continue in the city through August.

Dr. J. P. Sanford, chief of infectious diseases at Parkland Hospital, said the epidemic may not reach its peak until the last week in August.

The St. Louis type of encephalitis brings on stupor, tremors, stiff neck, headache and lethargy, a medical spokesman said.

On the ground, South Vietnamese government troops launched a new drive against Viet Cong guerrillas only three miles from Saigon after an upsurge of terrorist attacks on the fringes of the capital.

Elsewhere only scattered ground fighting was reported.

A U. S. military spokesman reported U.S. fighter-bombers flew 109 missions over the Communist North Wednesday and encountered three MIG17s.

Two MIGs made a pass at two Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs while the U.S. jets were bombing the Nguyen Khe oil storage area only 10 miles north of Hanoi. A U.S. spokesman said neither side fired and the opponents broke contact.

Fourteen minutes later, another MIG17 made a firing pass at the lead plane of a flight of Thunderchiefs that was hitting the same oil dump.

The MIG broke off, the U.S. spokesman said, when he was fired on by the wingman of the attacked Thunderchief. Neither the U.S. planes nor the MIG were hit, the spokesman said.

During the raids a Thunderchief went down from unknown causes 85 miles west of Hanoi. Both crew members were listed as missing in action.

The U.S. spokesman also reported on FB Crusader jet from the aircraft carrier USS Oriskany was shot down by Communist fire 15 miles northeast of Vinh on the coast of North Viet Nam. The pilot bailed out over the sea and was picked up by an American rescue helicopter.

Deaths were up 11 per cent over the 2,108 fatalities in 1964 as more than six persons died each day, 45 per week and 194 per month on the state's streets and highways.

The death toll for the year was exceeded only by the 2,458 deaths in 1941, the 2,589 in 1936, and the record 2,616 in 1937.

Injuries for the year totaled 118,495, or one for each 86 residents. One of every 4,390 Ohioans was killed, one for each 25 vehicles was in an accident, property damage alone was more than $80 million, and the economic cost was more than $400 million.

Rural highways claimed 1,540 victims, and 793 died in urban areas, although the outlying districts had only 112,044 accidents to 234,930 in the populated areas.

Economy Still Faces Some Nagging Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy still faces some nagging problems — high interest rates and the threat of further inflation — despite assurances from the Johnson administration that it's strong and healthy.

Since the beginning of the year, the pattern for prices and interest rates has been steadily upward. And the wage-price guidelines, one of the administration's major tools against inflation, now have been left for dead by their critics.

Even the administration, which still clings to the guidelines as official policy, is easing their value in the wake of this month's steel-price increases and an airline machinists' settlement which AFL-CIO

President George Meany has described as wonderful.

The settlement was well above that prescribed by the guidelines.

Administration leaders expect a lessening of some of the economic pressures later in the year, but at the present time inflation and high interest rates are under intensive government study.

One top government economist only Wednesday described the containment of inflation as perhaps the greatest challenge facing the administration in the year ahead.

Bus Accident Is Fatal to 9

32 Hurt as Truck Smashes Head-on

ALTAVISTA, Va. (AP) — A tractor-trailer and a loaded passenger bus hit head-on near this south-central Virginia town today, killing nine persons and injuring 29.

Eight persons died in the 4:45 a.m. crash on U.S. 29 and the other was dead on arrival at a Lynchburg, Va., hospital, 20 miles north of the wreck scene.

Among the dead were the drivers of the Railway Express agency tractor-trailer and the Queen City Trailways bus, and a Trailways driver riding as one of the bus' 36 passengers.

Trailways officials identified the bus driver as Ralph J. Carter of Danville and the driver-passenger as Wade Calhoun of Washington, D.C.

None of the passengers aboard the bus escaped injury or death. Twenty-nine underwent treatment at Lynchburg General Hospital.

Police could not immediately provide the names of the dead.

Altavista police officer W. B. Guill said the tractor-trailer and bus apparently hit head-on on a curve on the two-lane highway in the flat low country near the Staunton River. He said the left front portions of both vehicles were heavily damaged.

The truck remained on the roadway but the bus plunged into a slight ravine, overturned on its right side some 30 feet off the highway.

Most of the passengers were trapped in the bus and units from rescue squads worked to free them.

Russians Keeping Eye On NATO Fleet Tests

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The Navy says the Russians are using aircraft, ships and submarines to shadow a NATO exercise in the North Atlantic.

Five nations are taking part in the exercise, which includes simulated air attacks against Northern European targets and refueling and replenishment operations. It began Monday and ends Friday.

And anti-inflationary pressure was exerted Wednesday by the Federal Reserve Board as it tightened credit restrictions another notch, only one day after commercial banks had upped their interest rate for favored customers to 6 per cent.

The board raised from 5 to 6 per cent the legal minimum that the commercial banks must hold against certificates of deposit left for a specified period.

The new requirement, which goes into effect next month at several hundred banks with time deposits exceeding $5 million, means that for every $100 a Real estate tax collections to date for the current tax year total $2,988,017.61, according to Pickaway County Treasurer Robert W. Wood.

The collections are approximately $13,000 short of the total charge of 1965 real estate taxes of $3,001,432.71, Wood said.

Wood noted that another $35,400,000 probably will be collected before delinquencies are advertised in November.

Deadline for paying the 1965 real estate taxes, collected in 1966, was Aug. 1. However, Wood and his staff mailed reminders to those who had not complied with the ruling and granted a two-week extension.

The treasurer said real estate owners had a total of $91,050.40 in delinquencies at the beginning of the tax year. But he expects this figure to drop considerably by mid-November.

WE HAVE struggled through some occasional hot spells this summer, but nothing like the one faced by Jeff Gordon, a nephew of Circleville Mayor Ben Gordon.

Jeff, a member of the Peace Corps, is serving in Tunisia. He writes that the afternoon temperature there soars to 112 degrees.

In fact, its so hot most people work from 7 a. m. to 1 p. m. The remainder of the day is spent trying to escape the heat or recuperate from the hot air already prevalent by noontime.

Young Gordon, a graduate architect, reports excellent progress is being made on two schools he is helping to build. He describes his joining the Peace Corps as being "the best thing I ever have done."

He says he feels it is making him not only a better architect but also a better person — one more aware of the society he will serve.

One top government economist only Wednesday described the containment of inflation as perhaps the greatest challenge facing the administration in the year ahead.

William H. Shaw, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, urged not only restraint but also short-term

WASHINGTON (AP) — The economy still faces some aging problems — high interest rates and the threat of further inflation — despite assurances from the Johnson administration that it's strong and healthy.

Since the beginning of the year, the pattern for prices and interest rates has been steadily upward. And the wage-price guidelines, one of the administration's major tools against inflation, now have been left for dead by their critics.

Even the administration, which still clings to the guidelines as official policy, is easing their value in the wake of this month's steel-price increases and an airline machinists' settlement which AFL-CIO

President George Meany has described as wonderful. The settlement was well above that prescribed by the guidelines.

Administration leaders expect a lessening of some of the economic pressures later in the year, but at the present time inflation and high interest rates are under intensive government study.

Marshal Lin is Rated Red China's No. 2 Man

TOKYO (AP) — Red China indicated officially today that Defense Minister Marshal Lin Biao is now the country's No. 2 man. It gave signs he might even be on apart with Mao Tse-tung himself.

The New China News Agency said Lin, 59, standing "shoulder to shoulder" with Mao, 72, addressed a million people in Peking on behalf of Mao and the Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party.

It described Lin as Mao's "dearest comrade."

The official accounts, monitored here, did not say why Mao, appearing in a military uniform for the first time in years, did not speak for himself.

Evidence that the defense minister had pushed President Liu Shao-chi out of the No. 2 spot came when Lin was officially listed first after Mao.

Liu was listed eighth among those on the reviewing stand at the rally in Peking's Gate of Heavenly Peace Square. He was not called upon to speak, although he had been the spokesman for the Central Committee until the first of this month.

Neither Peking radio nor NCNA said outright that Lin had risen to his new eminence. But references to him as spokesman for Mao and the party and the fact he was listed immediately after Mao by official organs which follow strict party protocol all but spelled it out.

Premier Chou En-lai added weight to this supposition when he called on the assembled thousands to follow Lin's directives on the study of Mao's works.

It was further bolstered by Mao's appearance at the rally in military uniform, the first time in many years he has worn anything but the Sun Yat-sen jacket. This underlined the preponderant influence of the army, and of Lin Piao, in the party's affairs.

Lin himself referred several times to Mao as "the commander in chief and the great leader," but in several hard-hitting phrases made it clear that he —

Two Are Injured In Cycle Mishap

Blowout of a rear tire on a motorcycle sent two Circleville area people to Berger Hospital Wednesday evening for emergency treatment.

Theodore R. and Sandie Cowen, both of Route 2, were treated for multiple cuts and abrasions as a result of the mishap. Deputy Sheriff George Linder, investigating the accident, was told that Cowen was returning from work when the incident occurred.

The accident was on Route 104 near Yellow Bud.

man, Rep. Joe R. Pool, D-Tex., had been delayed.

The chairman of the committee, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., was also present but does not plan to preside at the sessions. Willis has been out of town campaigning for re-election in Louisiana's Democratic primaries.

Arthur A. Kinoy, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, who was dragged out of the hearing by federal marshals Wednesday, pleaded innocent today to charges of disorderly conduct.

The formal charge against Kinoy said he "did engage in loud and boisterous talk and other disorderly conduct" in protesting against questioning of a witness about activities of Kinoy's client.

Phillip A. McCombs, 22, a recent Yale University graduate from Ogdensburg, N. Y., was testifying about his undercover work in antiwar groups on assignment from William F. Buckley's conservative magazine, National Review, when a committee counsel asked him about the activities of Walter D. Teague III.

Attorney William M. Kunstler sprang to his feet and demanded that the testimony be taken in secret or that he, as Teague's attorney, be permitted to cross-examine McCombs. When Pool rejected the request, Kinoy leaped up to join the legal objection.

"Now sit down," Pool shouted. "You're not going to disrupt these hearings. We ruled on this yesterday."

Kinoy continued to argue, and Pool again told him to sit down as three federal marshals moved in.

"Take your hands off this man, a member of the bar," cried Kunstler as the marshals seized Kinoy and started to drag him toward the door.

Still shouting and attempting to keep his place, Kinoy was hauled off. One of the marshals held him around the neck, the others held his arms.

Pool did not specifically order the marshals to remove Kinoy, but had said at the outset of the hearings that anyone making a disturbance would be ejected.

As Kinoy was being hustled from the room, Kunstler told Pool: "Throw us all out. This man's clients are being denied representation."

While Kinoy was taken downtown to be charged with disorderly conduct, Kunstler demanded that the hearings be recessed until he returned.

When Pool refused, Kunstler said he was walking out. "I can no longer participate without the advice and counsel of Mr. Kinoy," said the attorney.

Although he said he was not advising his clients, Teague and Dr. Allen M. Krebs, to walk out, they left too.

One by one, the other seven attorneys came forward to make statements and withdraw. "Never have I seen such an exhibition," said Jeremiah Gutman, attorney for Stanley Nadel, Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I am not prepared to accept physical violence upon myself," said Beverly Axelrod, counsel for Jerry C. Rubin of Berkeley, Calif. Others expressed similar fears.

The prime rate is the interest charged the bank's largest and best customers. Other interest rates are scaled upward from it.

Bike Rider Not Injured

A 13-year-old boy on a bicycle escaped injury 7:40 p. m. Wednesday after skidding into the path of a moving auto.

James Fausnaugh, 13, of 932 S. Washington St., crashed into an auto driven by Henry L. Bloomfield, 50, of 369 Weldon Ave., police said.

Both Bloomfield and the Fausnaugh youth told officers Wesley Barton and Robert Sadler that they "saw what was about to happen" and quick responses from both parties prevented a more serious accident. Both vehicle operators applied their brakes just prior to the crash.

Fausnaugh said he came from behind a truck on Margaret Ave., spotted Bloomfield's auto and attempted to stop, but skidded into the car.

No citations were issued.

She was taken to Berger Hospital and treated for cuts. The driver of the other car was not found. However, markings on the hub cap show it belongs to a 1962 Oldsmobile "Starfire" or "98" series.

Mt. Sterling Man Killed

A Mt. Sterling area man was dead on arrival Wednesday afternoon at Doctors Hospital, Columbus. Death was caused by an electric shock he received at the Supersweet Feeds Co., where he worked.

Mr. William Abernathy, 38, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was loading feed on a truck when the accident occurred, according to Supersweet Co. officials.

It was theorized that Mr. Abernathy may have leaned against a high-voltage motor which was driving a conveyor belt.

Mr. Abernathy is survived by his widow, Mary, and six children.

Arrangements are being completed by the Snyder Funeral Home, Mt. Sterling.

In the ground action near Saigon, a battalion of government soldiers fanned out in pursuit of a Viet Cong force, estimated at 150 men, that ambushed a platoon of local militia Wednesday a few miles south of the city.

The drive was preceded by an artillery barrage that shook the capital. By nightfall, no contact with the enemy was reported.

The Viet Cong staged three forays in the Saigon area Wednesday and killed 15 Vietnamese. In the old imperial capital of Hue in the north, a terrorist bomb explosion at a pre-election carnival killed 28 persons and injured 151.

Church Conducts Dedication of New Structure

Hardships of the depression years were vividly recalled Wednesday when the Churches of Christ in Christian Union dedicated their new building on Route 22 just east of Circleville.

Difficulties encountered during the depression era were described by the Rev. Willard Cozad, superintendent of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union. "A penny per scholar per Sunday" saved the church farm at that time, he noted.

Storm Tied To Crash of Ohio Airplane

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—From preliminary inspection of the tangle of wreckage in a forest off Ohio 37, it appeared a thunderquall figured prominently in a plane crash that killed five men.

One newsman said Highway patrolmen and sheriff's officers who visited the scene Wednesday told him the plane evidently flew into a violent storm that ripped off part of its tail assembly, causing the crash.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigators from Chicago were expected to probe though the wreckage today.

The Cessna 310, twin-engine six-seat craft probably went down near Hebron within a half-hour from the time it left Mansfield Municipal Airport Tuesday morning but it and the victims' bodies weren't discovered until some 27 hours later.

The pilot was Paul Root, 47, of Shelby.

The other victim's were executives of Sanitary, Inc., maker of ceramic bathroom equipment at Perrysville, Ashland County, who were en route to Chattanooga, Tenn., on business.

They were Kenneth Edmondson, 55, Rt. 2, Perrysville; Theodore Smith, 43, Loudonville; Arthur Young, 47, Rt. Perrysville, and Henry Moyers, 48, of Englewood near Dayton, who had joined the firm recently.

er, the church farm has become the future campus of the Circleville Bible College, Rev. Cozad noted.

The Bible College will occupy the Route 22 premises as soon as succeeding buildings can be erected. The institution has been in operation for many years on Ohio St. at the Mt. of Praise Campmeeting Grounds.

A PORTION of the new building has been dedicated in memory of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Wright who were killed Mar. 3 of this year in an auto accident on Route 23 and Crites Road. Rev. Wright was general treasurer of the Church Conference and Circleville Bible College, a post he held for about 13 years.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hazelton of Delaware, O., a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Wright, and Mrs. James Wright of Grove City, a daughter-in-law, were present for the ceremony.

The foyer of the new building, constructed of stone and glass, will house a portrait of Rev. and Mrs. Wright. A plaque will denote the dedication in their memory.

The Rev. R. G. Humble was in charge of the Dedication Service. The Rev. Charles Williams of Washington Court House brought the dedicatory address, Rev. Melvin Maxwell read appropriate Scripture and Rev. Cozad offered the prayer of dedication.

The new college campus, when completed, will consist of administrative and classroom facilities, chapel, recreation building, dormitories, faculty housing and a modern trailer park to care for students who use this type of housing. The 160-acre church farm provides adequate space for expansion and future development.

Although the Bible College is primarily a ministerial and missionary training institution, its curriculum is sufficiently broad to provide a wide selection of offerings in the field of liberal and fine arts. Officials said students not planning on church-related careers have found an adequate beginning here as well as finding a strong spiritual background from which to launch their professional or vocational training.

Church authorities feel Circleville will be the richer for having their new cultural and educational institution developing in its midst.

Liu was listed eighth among those on the reviewing stand at the rally in Peking's Gate of Heavenly Peace Square. He was not called upon to speak, although he had been the spokesman for the Central Committee until the first of this month.

Neither Peking radio nor NCNA said outright that Lin had risen to his new eminence. But references to him as spokesman for Mao and the party and the fact he was listed immediately after Mao by official organs which follow strict party protocol all but spelled it out.

Premier Chou En-lai added weight to this supposition when he called on the assembled thousands to follow Lin's directives on the study of Mao's works.

It was further bolstered by Mao's appearance at the rally in military uniform, the first time in many years he has worn anything but the Sun Yat-sen jacket. This underlined the preponderant influence of the army, and of Lin Biao, in the party's affairs.

Lin himself referred several times to Mao as "the commander in chief and the great leader," but in several hard-hitting phrases made it clear that he — and Mao — are in charge. He said, "We will strike down those in power who take the road of capitalism, strike down the reactionary bourgeois authorities."

"We will vigorously destroy all the old ideas, old culture, old customs and old habits of the exploiting classes, and transform all those parts of the superstructure that do not correspond to the socialist economic base. We will sweep away all vermin and remove all obstacles."

The men standing beside Mao and Lin may have been members of the drastically revised political bureau of the party, a product of the plenary session.

If this assumption is correct, it means that besides purged Peking Mayor Peng Chen, Marshal Liu Po-cheng, a Mao crony, has been dropped. Mao was not among those present today.

The newcomers to the all-powerful group appear to be: Vice Premier Tao Chu; theoretician Chen Po-ta, chief of the new purge; Kang Sheng, hitherto an alternate member; Hsu Hsiang-chien, a vice chairman of the national defense council; Marshal Yeh Chien-ying; Vice Premier Po I-po; Vice Premier Hsieh Fu-chih; Li Hsueh-feng, Peng Chen's successor as chairman of the Peking Party Committee; and Liu Ning-yi, just named a member of the Central Committee Secretariat.

Two Are Injured In Cycle Mishap

Blowout of a rear tire on a motorcycle sent two Circleville area people to Berger Hospital Wednesday evening for emergency treatment.

Theodore R. and Sandie Cowen, both of Route 2, were treated for multiple cuts and abrasions as a result of the mishap.

Deputy Sheriff George Linder, investigating the accident, was told that Cowen was returning from work when the incident occurred.

The accident was on Route 104 near Yellow Bud.

Witnesses Say

The chairman of the committee, Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., was also present but does not plan to preside at the sessions. Willis has been out of town campaigning for renomination in Louisiana's Democratic primaries.

Arthur A. Kinoy, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, who was dragged out of the hearing by federal marshals Wednesday, pleaded innocent today to charges of disorderly conduct.

The formal charge against Kinoy said he "did engage in loud and boisterous talk and other disorderly conduct" in protesting against questioning of a witness about activities of Kinoy's client.

Philip A. McCombs, 22, a recent Yale University graduate from Ogdensburg, N. Y., was testifying about his undercover work in antiwar groups on assignment from William F. Buckley's conservative magazine, National Review, when a committee counsel asked him about the activities of Walter D. Teague III.

Attorney William M. Kunstler sprang to his feet and demanded that the testimony be taken in secret or that he, as Teague's attorney, be permitted to cross-examine McCombs. When Pool rejected the request, Kinoy leaped up to join the legal objection.

"Now sit down," Pool shouted. "You're not going to disrupt these hearings. We ruled on this yesterday."

Kinoy continued to argue, and Pool again told him to sit down as three federal marshals moved in.

"Take your hands off this man, a member of the bar," cried Kunstler as the marshals seized Kinoy and started to drag him toward the door.

Still shouting and attempting to keep his place, Kinoy was hauled off. One of the marshals held him around the neck, the others held his arms.

Pool did not specifically order the marshals to remove Kinoy, but had said at the outset of the hearings that anyone making a disturbance would be ejected.

As Kinoy was being hustled from the room, Kunstler told Pool: "Throw us all out. This man's clients are being denied representation."

While Kinoy was taken down town to be charged with disorderly conduct, Kunstler demanded that the hearings be recessed until he returned.

When Pool refused, Kunstler said he was walking out. "I can no longer participate without the advice and counsel of Mr. Kinoy," said the attorney.

Although he said he was not advising his clients, Teague and Dr. Allen M. Krebs, to walk out, they left too.

One by one, the other seven attorneys came forward to make statements and withdraw. "Never have I seen such an exhibition," said Jeremiah Gutman, attorney for Stanley Nadel, Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I am not prepared to accept physical violence upon myself," said Beverly Axelrod, counsel for Jerry C. Rubin of Berkeley, Calif. Others expressed similar fears.

Bike Rider Not Injured

A 13-year-old boy on a bicycle escaped injury 7:40 p. m. Wednesday after skidding into the path of a moving auto.

James Fausnaugh, 13, of 932 S. Washington St., crashed into an auto driven by Henry L. Bloomfield, 50, of 389 Weldon Ave., police said.

Both Bloomfield and the Fausnaugh youth told officers Wesley Barton and Robert Sadler that they "saw what was about to happen" and quick responses from both parties prevented a more serious accident. Both vehicle operators applied their brakes just prior to the crash.

Fausnaugh said he came from behind a truck on Margaret Ave., spotted Bloomfield's auto and attempted to stop, but skidded into the car.

No citations were issued.

Flying Cap Causes Injury

A Circleville woman was slightly injured in an unusual accident Wednesday on Route 23 near the intersection of Route 22.

Margaret C. Hannihan, 30, Route 1, reported to the State Highway Patrol she was southbound on Route 23 when a hub cap from an unidentified northbound car flew across the road and shattered her windshield.

She was taken to Berger Hospital and treated for cuts. The driver of the other car was not found. However, markings on the hub cap show it belongs to a 1962 Oldsmobile "Starfire" or "98" series.

Mt. Sterling Man Killed

A Mt. Sterling area man was dead on arrival Wednesday afternoon at Doctors Hospital, Columbus. Death was caused by an electric shock he received at the Supersweet Feeds Co., where he worked.

Mr. William Abernathy, 38, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was loading feed on a truck when the accident occurred, according to Supersweet Co. officials.

It was theorized that Mr. Abernathy may have leaned against a high-voltage motor which was driving a conveyor belt.

Mr. Abernathy is survived by his widow, Mary, and six children.

Arrangements are being completed by the Snyder Funeral Home, Mt. Sterling.

In the ground action near Saigon, a battalion of government soldiers fanned out in pursuit of a Viet Cong force, estimated at 150 men, that ambushed a platoon of local militia Wednesday a few miles south of the city.

The drive was preceded by an artillery barrage that shook the capital. By nightfall, no contact with the enemy was reported.

The Viet Cong staged three forays in the Saigon area Wednesday and killed 15 Vietnamese. In the old imperial capital of Hue in the north, a terrorist bomb explosion at a pre-election carnival killed 28 persons and injured 151.

Church Conducts Dedication of New Structure

Hardships of the depression years were vividly recalled Wednesday when the Churches of Christ in Christian Union dedicated their new building on Route 22 just east of Circleville.

Difficulties encountered during the depression era were described by the Rev. Willard Cozad, superintendent of the North Central District of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union. "A penny per scholar per Sunday" saved the church farm at that time, he noted.

Now, more than 30 years later, the church farm has become the future campus of the Circleville Bible College, Rev. Cozad noted.

The Bible College will occupy the Route 22 premises as soon as succeeding buildings can be erected. The institution has been in operation for many years on Ohio St. at the Mt. of Praise Campmeeting Grounds.

A PORTION of the new building has been dedicated in memory of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Wright who were killed Mar. 3 of this year in an auto accident on Route 23 and Crites Road. Rev. Wright was general treasurer of the Church Conference and Circleville Bible College, a post he held for about 13 years.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hazelton of Delaware, O., a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Wright, and Mrs. James Wright of Grove City, a daughter-in-law, were present for the ceremony.

The foyer of the new building, constructed of stone and glass, will house a portrait of Rev. and Mrs. Wright. A plaque will denote the dedication in their memory.

The Rev. R. G. Humble was in charge of the Dedication Service. The Rev. Charles Williams of Washington Court House brought the dedicatory address, Rev. Melvin Maxwell read appropriate Scripture and Rev. Cozad offered the prayer of dedication.

The new college campus, when completed, will consist of administrative and classroom facilities, chapel, recreation building, dormitories, faculty housing and a modern trailer park to care for students who use this type of housing. The 160-acre church farm provides adequate space for expansion and future development.

Although the Bible College is primarily a ministerial and missionary training institution, its curriculum is sufficiently broad to provide a wide selection of offerings in the field of liberal and fine arts. Officials said students not planning on church-related careers have found an adequate beginning here as well as finding a strong spiritual background from which to launch their professional or vocational training.

Church authorities feel Circleville will be the richer for having their new cultural and educational institution developing in its midst.

Lunar Spaceship Alters Its Orbit

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists reported unexplained changes in Lunar Orbiter's path around the moon prior to today's photographic assignment.

The highest point in the orbit has dropped from 1,158 to 1,150 miles, while the low point has risen gradually from 117 miles to 126.

"All we can say pending detailed studies is that something is influencing the orbit we can't explain," scientist Edmund Brummer of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday.

bank obtained through a certificate of deposit, it must set aside $6 as a reserve instead of $5. It can lend the remaining $94 to customers.

A similar boost from 4 to 5 per cent was voted by the board June 27.

The new equipment, the board estimated, would reduce funds available for lending by banks by about $450 million.

The government noted Wednesday, however, one beneficial effect of high interest rates in reporting a balance of payments deficit of only $163 million for the second quarter of the year, the lowest quarterly figure in 12 months.

The Commerce Department credited the relatively good showing to an increase of foreign investment in high-interest deposit certificates.

But Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said this was a temporary factor and the government did not want to rely on high interest as its main tool to end the balance of payments difference between what Americans spend abroad and what foreigners spend in this country.

Asked if he considered Tuesday's increase in bank interest rates inflationary, Fowler replied: "An increase in the cost of money is an increase in costs just like . . . wages. To that degree it can contribute to inflation."

Fowler had urged the banks to limit their credit by rejecting more loan applications rather than relying on higher interest rates.

Chairman Wight Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, told the House Wednesday it would get a chance next week to vote for lower interest rates. He urged support of a bill that would limit interest paid on certificates of deposit of $100,000 and under to 4.5 per cent.

Patman and others contend the certificates have siphoned funds from savings and loan associations and contributed to a shortage of mortgage money, a factor which has dropped housing starts to their lowest level in five years.

Riot Area Residents Eye Mayor Ouster

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Plain Dealer said in a copyrighted story today that two Hough area residents plan to file an affidavit with the city council clerk this afternoon as the first step in a campaign to oust Mayor Ralph S. Locher.

The newspaper said the affidavit has been prepared by Charlie Day, a truck driver, and Mrs. Solomon Bailey, a housewife.

They must get signatures of 47,454 Clevelanders who voted in the 1965 mayoral election in order to get the issue on the ballot.

The 47,454 signatures would amount to 20 per cent of the 1965 mayoral vote.

This is the first time anyone has initiated recall action since provision for such action was placed in the Cleveland city charter 35 years ago.

Day and Mrs. Bailey alleged in their petition that Mayor Locher was guilty of non-feasance of duty in that he failed to "fully and properly discharge his responsibilities and duties as chief conservator of the peace" and failed to "fully and properly enforce all of the ordinances of the city."

The first allegation refers to the Hough riots last month. Day and Mrs. Bailey said Locher "waited two days" before seeking Ohio National Guard troops to quell the violence.

The second allegations relates to housing.

"It has been publicly admitted," Day said, "that the city did not enforce housing code ordinances to purposely let property deteriorate so as to buy the property cheaper for urban renewal."

A 30-day period is allowed for gathering the needed signatures on petitions and filing them with council. If council determines that there are not enough signatures, then another 20 days will be allowed to obtain additional signatures.

If sufficient signatures are secured, council must set a date for a recall election within 40 to 60 days—unless the official concerned choose to resign.

Mayor Locher has been in office since 1962.

Chillicothe Reformatory Population Now 216

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Closing of the federal reformatory here, rumored for several months, appears even more likely with disclosure from Warden J. A. Mayden that the number of prisoners stands at 216 against nearly 1,100 a year ago.

The prisoners are being transferred to other federal institutions, Mayden said Wednesday because a "phase out here appears imminent." There has been no determination as to what the disposition of the reformatory would be, Mayden said.

8 Ohio TB Hospitals Due To Be Closed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Health Department designated 12 tuberculosis hospitals today to provide care for TB patients.

The action, in effect, means eight others will be closed. They will no longer be eligible for state aid and probably cannot continue to operate without it.

The state health director, Dr. Emmett W. Arnold, selected the 12 hospitals under a new law, to take effect Oct. 1, raising the payment by the state to $5 a day per patient from $2.50. The law provided Arnold should designate which hospitals should get the higher aid.

Arnold said the 12 chosen hospitals have 1,948 beds. He said Ohio has averaged about 1,400 patients in tuberculosis hospitals.

The selected hospitals include two state-operated facilities, in Columbus and Nelsonville. The others designated are: Benjamin Franklin, Columbus; Dunham, Cincinnati; Edwin Shaw, Akron; Lowman Pavilion and Sunny Acres, Cleveland; Mahoning, Youngstown; Molly Stark, Canton; Ottawa Valley, Lima; Stillwater, Dayton; and William Roche, Toledo.

Excluded from state aid now will be hospitals or sanitariums in Amherst, Chillicothe, Green Springs, Hamilton, Mansfield, McConnsville, Newark and Warren.

The Green Springs hospitals is a Catholic facility, the McConnsville one a private hospital. The others are operated by counties.

Improved treatment of tuberculosis has reduced the need for specialized hospitals to treat the lung disease. Fewer patients require hospitalization now and those that do stay less time.

Steps Are Taken To Improve Berger Anesthesia Program

Authority to continue negotiations to acquire a full-time anesthetist was granted during Wednesday night's meeting of Berger Hospital's governing board.

Administrator Charles B. Beard told members he has been in contact with a male nurse anesthetist in Columbus who possibly is interested in locating here. The board agreed the effort should be continued.

Beard has termed the anesthesia situation at Berger an urgent problem that should be solved as soon as possible. "A person handling the job on a full-time basis would contribute greatly to a smoother hospital operation," he added.

The administrator also explained that if an anesthetist is hired it will probably be necessary to acquire an Anesthesia machine. He was authorized to make the purchase if needed.

IN OTHER agenda matters, Beard emphasized the importance connected with physicians signing patient admissions forms under the medicare program. He said the procedure is a must in order for the hospital to receive payment for services provided.

A new approach to "grading" the hospital as a whole was introduced by the administrator. The program is based on a "Patient Service Opinionnaire" in which discharged patients are requested to supply information concerning services received.

An all-time high of 472 emergency cases in July was defined as an encouraging trend. Beard gave this phase of the hospital's decision last month and essential function.

The Berger supervisor also reported that efforts are being continued to meet all requirements set down by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. He said corrective action is being taken on all recommendations by the Joint Commission as rapidly as possible.

Commenting on the governing board's decision last month to grant employee pay raises on a merit basis, Beard described it as an excellent move that has improved morale and hospital operations.

A report on statistics for July showed an 80 per cent patient occupancy for the period. There were 42 births, 75 operations performed, 1,706 laboratory procedures and 405 x-ray procedures.

State Highway Chief Undergoes Operation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Highway Director P. E. Masheter is to remain under doctor's care for 30 days following major surgery here Tuesday, his family said Wednesday. A spokesman said there was no indication whether Masheter would return to his job during that time.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Plain Dealer said in a copyrighted story today that two Hough area residents plan to file an affidavit with the city council clerk this afternoon as the first step in a campaign to oust Mayor Ralph S. Locher.

The newspaper said the affidavit has been prepared by Charlie Day, a truck driver, and Mrs. Solomon Bailey, a housewife.

They must get signatures of 47,454 Clevelanders who voted in the 1965 mayoral election in order to get the issue on the ballot.

The 47,454 signatures would amount to 20 per cent of the 1965 mayoral vote.

This is the first time anyone has initiated recall action since provision for such action was placed in the Cleveland city charter 35 years ago.

Day and Mrs. Bailey alleged in their petition that Mayor Locher was guilty of nonfeasance of duty in that he failed to "fully and properly discharge his responsibilities and duties as chief conservator of the peace" and failed to "fully and properly enforce all of the ordinances of the city."

The first allegation refers to the Hough riots last month. Day and Mrs. Bailey said Locher "waited two days" before seeking Ohio National Guard troops to quell the violence.

The second allegations relates to housing.

"It has been publicly admitted," Day said, "that the city did not enforce housing code ordinances to purposely let property deteriorate so as to buy the property cheaper for urban renewal."

A 30-day period is allowed for gathering the needed signatures on petitions and filing them with council. If council determines that there are not enough signatures, then another 20 days will be allowed to obtain additional signatures.

If sufficient signatures are secured, council must set a date for a recall election within 40 to 60 days—unless the official concerned choose to resign.

Mayor Locher has been in office since 1962.

Chillicothe Reformatory Population Now 216

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP)—Closing of the federal reformatory here, rumored for several months, appears even more likely with disclosure from Warden J. A. Mayden that the number of prisoners stands at 216 against nearly 1,100 a year ago.

The prisoners are being transferred to other federal institutions, Mayden said Wednesday because a "phase out here appears imminent." There has been no determination as to what the disposition of the reformatory would be, Mayden said.

12 Treated At Hospital For Injuries

Twelve persons were treated Wednesday for various injuries by the Emergency Staff of Berger Hospital. All were released.

John Schein, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schein, Route 2, received treatment after a splinter from a truck gate lodged in his left leg.

Tim Wells, 16, Ashville, was treated for burns to his left hand.

Charles Shook, 30, Chillicothe, was treated after a foreign body lodged in his right eye.

Kansas Movie Board Ordered Shut Down

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (P)—The Kansas State Board of Motion Picture Review is going out of business. The board, recently declared unconstitutional by the Kansas Supreme Court, was ordered shut down by Gov. William H. Avery.

Much of the mercury used in United States comes from a mine at Alamaden, Spain. This mine may have operated as early as 400 B.C.

Economy . . .

(Continued from Page One) bank obtains through a certificate of deposit, it must set aside $6 as a reserve instead of $5. It can lend the remaining $94 to customers.

A similar boost from 4 to 5 per cent was voted by the board June 27.

The new equipment, the board estimated, would reduce funds available for lending by banks by about $450 million.

The government noted Wednesday, however, one beneficial effect of high interest rates in reporting a balance of payments deficit of only $163 million for the second quarter of the year, the lowest quarterly figure in 12 months.

The Commerce Department credited the relatively good showing to an increase of foreign investment in high-interest deposit certificates.

But Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said this was a temporary fact and the government did not want to rely on high interest as its main tool to end the balance of payments difference between what Americans spend abroad and what foreigners spend in this country.

Asked if he considered Tuesday's increase in bank interest rates inflationary, Fowler replied: "An increase in the cost of money is an increase in costs just like . . . wages. To that degree it can contribute to inflation."

Fowler had urged the banks to limit their credit by rejecting more loan applications rather than relying on higher interest rates.

Chairman Wight Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, told the House Wednesday it would get a chance next week to vote for lower interest rates. He urged support of a bill that would limit interest paid on certificates of deposit of $100,000 and under to 4.5 per cent.

Patman and others contend the certificates have siphoned funds from savings and loan associations and contributed to a shortage of mortgage money, a factor which has dropped housing starts to their lowest level in five years.

Steps Are Taken To Improve Berger Anesthesia Program

Authority to continue negotiations to acquire a full-time anesthetist was granted during Wednesday night's meeting of Berger Hospital's governing board.

Administrator Charles B. Beard told members he has been in contact with a male nurse anesthetist in Columbus who possibly is interested in locating here. The board agreed the effort should be continued.

Beard has termed the anesthesia situation at Berger an urgent problem that should be solved as soon as possible. "A person handling the job on a full-time basis would contribute greatly to a smoother hospital operation," he added.

The administrator also explained that if an anesthetist is hired it will probably be necessary to acquire an Anesthesia machine. He was authorized to make the purchase if needed.

IN OTHER agenda matters, Beard emphasized the importance connected with physicians signing patient admissions forms under the medicare program. He said the procedure is a must in order for the hospital to receive payment for services provided.

A new approach to "grading" the hospital as a whole was introduced by the administrator. The program is based on a "Patient Service Opinionnaire" in which discharged patients are requested to supply information concerning services received.

An all-time high of 472 emergency cases in July was defined as an encouraging trend. Beard gave this phase of the hospital this phase of the hosant and essential function.

The Berger supervisor also reported that efforts are being continued to meet all requirements set down by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. He said corrective action is being taken on all recommendations by the Joint Commission as rapidly as possible.

State Highway Chief Undergoes Operation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Highway Director P. E. Masheter is to remain under doctor's care for 30 days following major surgery here Tuesday, his family said Wednesday. A spokesman said there was no indication whether Masheter would return to his job during that time.

to grant employee pay raises on a merit basis, Beard described it as an excellent move that has improved morale and hospital operations.

A report on statistics for July showed an 80 per cent patient occupancy for the period. There were 42 births, 75 operations performed, 1,706 laboratory procedures and 405 x-ray procedures.

"Why is it you will never ask directions until we're hopelessly lost?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NEW YORK tailor who died before the turn of the century, left behind no cash, no securities, no real estate — just 71 suits to his sole surviving relative — a nephew who had expected a great deal more. Disgusted, the nephew sold the entire wardrobe for $300 cash. When each subsequent purchaser of one of the suits cut the thread to open the pockets, he found a packet containing one thousand dollars in bank notes. Had he examined his bequest a bit more carefully, the nephew would have wound up with $71,000 in cash — and possibly could have afforded to give the suits to a deserving charity!

There's a letter in the complaint department of a recent university town newspaper that deserves consideration. "We are concerned," it states, "about our intellectually unfulfilled women, who hang about their homes all day with nobody to talk to but the milkman. Do we want to keep up with progress in the rest of the world? Obviously, we must produce more graduate milkmen!"

From a writer who signs himself "Grandpa Moses":
"I wonder how warlike the world would be if the minimum age for the draft was 60. It strikes me that modern wars are all started by old geezers who don't have to register. Put those old boys in boot camp for just one week and I have a hunch they'd come up with alternates."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

An accident occurred recently on a busy street. The victim was immediately surrounded by a half-dozen people hysterically giving instructions and adding to the confusion. What are the basic steps to help an unconscious person?

K. S., Illinois
Dear Mr. S.: Most people are remarkably generous and solicitous and quickly come to the aid of an injured person. As a physician I am always aware as to how much people want to do, to be of service during an emergency.

It is quite understandable that people who are untrained in the art of giving first aid become as easily upset as they frequently are. Even physicians react emotionally to such situations but quickly recover their composure before beginning to help the victim.

A prime rule is to do a little bit slowly rather than too much too quickly. First send for professional help immediately. Do not move the injured. Keep him covered with a coat or blanket.

Control any bleeding by firm pressure with a handkerchief or clean cloth.
Do not force liquids into his mouth. Brandy or any liquor must not be pushed into the mouth of an unconscious person.

Gently turn the victim's head to the side if fluid or food seems to be accumulating in his throat and interfering with breathing. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is imperative if the person is not breathing.

Learning how to do this life-saving technique is simple and can be accomplished in a few minutes through the Red Cross bulletins and teaching program.

I am about to marry a young man who is 28 years old. He, like his father, has had gray hair since he was 21. My sister insists that graying hair in a young man means that there is a greater likelihood of early aging. This, of course, will not alter my plans but I am curious to know if there is any validity to this idea.

Miss B. E., California
Dear Miss E.: The tendency toward premature graying of the hair has never been thoroughly understood or explained. Some people have studied the problem from the point of view of thyroid and other hormone deficiencies.

Others have considered the psychological basis for this condition. The secret still persists. You may rest secure in the knowledge that there seems to be no relationship between graying of the hair in the young and good health and a normal life span.

The added distinction that graying of the hair gives to the personality is an additional reason for your good judgment in proceeding with the wedding.

Save your back. Never lift a weight that you know is beyond your strength.

Flank Attack on Strikes

By John Chamberlain

Unless there is a war on, a really and truly declared war in which everyone's efforts, travels and consumption are subject to patriotic control without favoritism, there is no possible way in a democracy of making people work by compulsory methods. Instinctive knowledge of this rather than any professional cowardice of delinquency is what has made both Congress and the President wary in their handling of the air line strike.

When a person is a skilled man, the absurdity of attempting to chain him to a work bench becomes particularly obvious. Certainly it stands to reason that anyone with a transferable skill is not going to stay put very long in a time of high employment if he doesn't like the deal he is getting. Air line machinists have distinctly transferable skills, so how are you going to keep them from drifting away from their present jobs if they figure they are getting the short end of the stick in an economy of rising prices?

The basic reason for labor's defiance of the Johnson 3.2 per cent guidelines is the rise in corporate profits, which went up by some fifteen per cent after taxes last year. A profit rise does not bother the sophisticated economist, who knows that profits go back, by way of investment, into machinery that makes more jobs at better rates of pay. The spread between wages and profits has never been as iniquitous as the Marxists would have the working man believe. Even so, workers, like other people, are subject to envy. And it is a standing wonder to me that people with some influence over economic decisions can't figure out a way of harnessing the driving power of envy to the general needs of industrial society.

The obvious way to reach such a desirable end would be to tie the worker to the profit drive. It so happens that Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Committee on Ways and Means who is a Democrat, and Representative John W. Byrnes, a leading Republican member of the committee, have in their possession a bill drafted by E.S. Hall of Farmington, Conn., that might accomplish just such a thing.

Mr. Hall, a familiar Don Quixote on Capitol Hill, has been urging his idea on Congress for a long time. What he proposes is to give tax advantages to corporations that are willing to cut their workers in for a share of profits. The ingenious thing about Mr. Hall's scheme is that it offers a formula for determining the "investment worth" of a worker's time. Mr. Hall would pay profits equally on money invested in a business and on the time worked as measured by wages. A man earning $7,000 a year would get the same amount of profit at the end of a year as an investor who had put $7,000 into the company's machinery.

Mr. Hall figures it is only justice to consider that a year of "life" invested in a business is worth a dividend equal to that earned by the money equivalent of the year's work. He is also right on the mathematical principle that "things equal to the same thing are equal to each other."

Mr. Hall's scheme is entirely permissible. As I understand it, he would relieve corporations that accepted his scheme of the burden of the so-called "double taxation" of dividends. The shared profits would be taxed only as income to people. Hall argues quite convincingly that "when employers and employees are limited partners receiving their parts of profit or loss, they will all try to increase profit and prevent loss." Limited partners would surely have less incentive to strike.

Profit sharing is one way of attacking the strike issue on the flank. Another way would be to extend the coverage of existing laws and unions that are now exempted from them by the Railway Labor Act. Compulsory unionism as it is now applied to railway and airline employees means that the rank and file of workers in transport have no good check on the decisions of their leaders. President Roy Slemiller of the Machinists Union has informed a House Committee that "it would be just a tragic mistake for the Congress of the United States to take freedom away from any segment of the working population. The question is whether any supporter of compulsory unionism really knows what freedom means."

"Why is it you will never ask directions until we're hopelessly lost?"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A NEW YORK tailor who died before the turn of the century, left behind no cash, no securities, no real estate — just 71 suits to his sole surviving relative—a nephew who had expected a great deal more. Disgusted, the nephew sold the entire wardrobe for $300 cash. When each subsequent purchaser of one of the suits cut the thread to open the pockets, he found a packet containing one thousand dollars in bank notes. Had he examined his bequest a bit more carefully, the nephew would have wound up with $71,000 in cash—and possibly could have afforded to give the suits to a deserving charity!

There's a letter in the complaint department of a recent university town newspaper that deserves consideration. "We are concerned," it states, "about our intellectually unfulfilled women, who hang about their homes all day with nobody to talk to but the milkman. Do we want to keep up with progress in the rest of the world? Obviously, we must produce more graduate milkmen!"

From a writer who signs himself "Grandpa Moses":
"I wonder how warlike the world would be if the minimum age for the draft was 60. It strikes me that modern wars are all started by old geezers who don't have to register. Put those old boys in boot camp for just one week and I have a hunch they'd come up with alternates."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

An accident occurred recently on a busy street. The victim was immediately surrounded by a half-dozen people hysterically giving instructions and adding to the confusion. What are the basic steps to help an unconscious person?

K. S., Illinois
Dear Mr. S.: Most people are remarkably generous and solicitous and quickly come to the aid of an injured person. As a physician I am always aware as to how much people want to do, to be of service during an emergency.

It is quite understandable that people who are untrained in the art of giving first aid become as easily upset as they frequently are. Even physicians react emotionally to such situations but quickly recover their composure before beginning to help the victim.

A prime rule is to do a little bit slowly rather than too much too quickly. First send for professional help immediately. Do not move the injured. Keep him covered with a coat or blanket.

Control any bleeding by firm pressure with a handkerchief or clean cloth. Do not force liquids into his mouth. Brandy or any liquor must not be pushed into the mouth of an unconscious person.

Gently turn the victim's head to the side if fluid or food seems to be accumulating in his throat and interfering with breathing. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is imperative if the person is not breathing.

Learning how to do this life-saving technique is simple and can be accomplished in a few minutes through the Red Cross bulletins and teaching program.

I am about to marry a young man who is 28 years old. He, like his father, has had gray hair since he was 21. My sister insists that graying hair in a young man means that there is a greater likelihood of early aging. This, of course, will not alter my plans but I am curious to know if there is any validity to this idea.

Flank Attack on Strikes

By John Chamberlain

Unless there is a war on, a really and truly declared war in which everyone's efforts, travels and consumption are subject to patriotic control without favoritism, there is no possible way in a democracy of making people work by compulsory methods. Instinctive knowledge of this rather than any professional cowardice of delinquency is what has made both Congress and the President wary in their handling of the air line strike.

When a person is a skilled man, the absurdity of attempting to chain him to a work bench becomes particularly obvious. Certainly it stands to reason that anyone with a transferable skill is not going to stay put very long in a time of high employment if he doesn't like the deal he is getting. Air line machinists have distinctly transferable skills, so how are you going to keep them from drifting away from their present jobs if they figure they are getting the short end of the stick in an economy of rising prices?

The basic reason for labor's defiance of the Johnson 3.2 per cent guidelines is the rise in corporate profits, which went up by some fifteen per cent after taxes last year. A profit rise does not bother the sophisticated economist, who knows that profits go back, by way of investment, into machinery that makes more jobs at better rates of pay. The spread between wages and profits has never been as iniquitous as the Marxists would have the working man believe. Even so, workers, like other people, are subject to envy. And it is a standing wonder to me that people with some influence over economic decisions can't figure out a way of harnessing the driving power of envy to the general needs of industrial society.

The obvious way to reach such a desirable end would be to tie the worker to the profit drive. It so happens that Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Committee on Ways and Means who is a Democrat, and Representative John W. Byrnes, a leading Republican member of the committee, have in their possession a bill drafted by E.S. Hall of Farmington, Conn., that might accomplish just such a thing.

Mr. Hall, a familiar Don Quixote on Capitol Hill, has been urging his idea on Congress for a long time. What he proposes is to give tax advantages to corporations that are willing to cut their workers in for a share of profits. The ingenious thing about Mr. Hall's scheme is that it offers a formula for determining the "investment worth" of a worker's time. Mr. Hall would pay profits equally on money invested in a business and on the time worked as measured by wages. A man earning $7,000 a year would get the same amount of profit at the end of a year as an investor who had put $7,000 into the company's machinery.

Mr. Hall figures it is only justice to consider that a year of "life" invested in a business is worth a dividend equal to that earned by the money equivalent of the year's work. He is also right on the mathematical principle that "things equal to the same thing are equal to each other."

Mr. Hall's scheme is entirely permissive. As I understand it, he would relieve corporations that accepted his scheme of the burden of the so-called "double taxation" of dividends. The shared profits would be taxed only as income to people. Hall argues quite convincingly that "when employers and employees are limited partners receiving their parts of profit or loss, they will all try to increase profit and prevent loss." Limited partners would surely have less incentive to strike.

Profit sharing is one way of attacking the strike issue on the flank. Another way would be to extend the coverage of existing laws and unions that are now exempted from them by the Railway Labor Act. Compulsory unionism as it is now applied to railway and airline employees means that the rank and file of workers in transport have no good check on the decisions of their leaders. President Roy Snieland of the Machinists Union has informed a House Committee that "it would be just a tragic mistake for the Congress of the United States to take freedom away from any segment of the working population. The question is whether any supporter of compulsory unionism really knows what freedom means."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a nice try but it got tangled up in beards, long hair and legal confusion. And now maybe it's nearly over. This is an ABC to try to untangle it.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities is considering legislation to punish people who try to help the Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam or interfere with U.S. troop movements.

In this country a number of people have noisily opposed the American role in Viet Nam, have talked of sending supplies to the Viet Cong. The committee decided to hold hearings and called 13 witnesses to question them.

The committee, supposedly, wanted to get information to help in framing the legislation. Why this was necessary isn't clear. It's probably loaded with all the information it needs.

The Constitution's First Amendment is intended to protect an individual's freedom of speech and thought — like shouting out against the Viet name war — and there has long been dispute over how far a congressional committee should be able to go in questioning people about what they think.

But in 1957 the Supreme Court said, in effect, the amount of protection the First Amendment gives depends in large part on Congress's need to learn certain information from a certain individual.

Traditionally, when an individual refused to answer and was later convicted for contempt of Congress, he appealed to the federal courts which then decided whether he had a constitutional right to stay silent.

Two of the 13 witnesses called before the House Committee on Un-American Activities this time got the American Civil Liberties Union to fight for them, with a new twist.

The ACLU argued that the committee's whole reason for existence is unconstitutional.

This was its reasoning.

The rule under which the full House says the committee shall do business — it's been the rule since 1946 — authorizes it to investigate un-American propaganda activities in this country.

This, the ACLU reasons, means nothing the committee does can be constitutional because propaganda, since it involves freedom of thought and speech, is protected by the First Amendment.

So, raising the question about the committee's constitutionality, the ACLU asked a federal judge, Howard F. Corcoran, to forbid the committee to hold the hearings. No judge had ever given such a ruling before.

To do so would certainly be interpreted by members of Congress as interference by the courts with the powers of the legislature. That could start a war the like of which the United States had never seen before.

Nevertheless, to everyone's astonishment, Corcoran ruled against the hearings.

The committee, promptly defying him, said it would hold the hearing. Just before it started, a three-judge federal panel including Corcoran, met and told the committee to ignore the order Corcoran had issued the night before.

The hearings so far have been a bedlam. A lot of young people — some with beards, longhair, tight pants, tight dresses — kept the place jumping. Some were thrown out. The committee couldn't have learned much if it wanted to.

Another three-judge federal panel was supposed to meet Wednesday to consider ACLU's constitutional question. But it said it needed more time to consider the problem.

The committee may end its hearings very quickly. Once that happens, the three judges probably will decide there's no need for their opinion, which will be a nice way to avoid a war with Congress.

Changes Taking Place Under New Red Regime

EDITOR'S NOTE—Per Kronvall, 19, student and budding Swedish journalist, has just spent a month in Communist China with a Swedish educational mission and in the following story, written for The Associated Press, he reports some of his observations.

By PER KRONVALL
Written for The Associated Press

Changes are taking place in China. Popular Peking operas are being replaced by spectacles in which actors and actresses read from the works of Mao Tze-tung, and urge the Chinese people to hate "American imperialism."

It is all part of China's cultural revolution, with the motto: "Learn from the peasants, workers and soldiers."

The campaign is aimed at wiping out the past and crushing desire to own land and other property.

Things that were accepted before are now condemned. For example, leading author Kuo Mo-jo was forced to make a public statement saying he was deeply ashamed of everything he had written. He said everybody should regard his works as rubbish.

In Peking I saw a film produced a few years ago. The story relates how a Communist military leader convinces a besieged nationalist leader that communism is the correct line. The closing scene showed a handshake between the two military leaders. The audience booed because Mao Tze-tung has said:

"Once he is a capitalist he cannot become a good Communist."

The picture later was banned. Those who are under severe attack are mainly teachers and other intellectuals. Many of them, I was told, have been under newspaper attacks since last fall. But things flared up in the spring when students in the Peking University started demonstrations against some teachers and schoolmates.

The demonstrators denounced the teachers and students as traitors and enemies of the working class. The propaganda intensified in late May when these teachers and classmates were dragged out bodily from the university compound. Many students spat at them and yelled slogans against imperialism. Lu Ping, president of the university, also had to leave although he was supposed to have smashed "certain bourgeois elements among the teachers and students" in 1958.

The Peking government has worked out a new school system, whereby political views are the dominating factor. The students' scholastic standards are of secondary importance.

For the average Chinese the cultural revolution has resulted in drastic changes. In factories, production has slowed down because workers have to attend political meetings usually lasting several hours. During these meetings, the workers study the works of Mao Tze-tung and sometimes carry out self criticism.

Each meeting usually is attended by 15 to 20 workers. They often criticize a fellow worker for not spending his private time properly or not studying the works of Mao Tze-tung thoroughly. The worker can defend himself but this is not very common. Usually he just apologizes, saying he was too tired to study Chairman Mao's works.

While I was in Peking I visited a construction plant. I saw many workers inside the administration office drawing up time-tables while executives and administrators were laying bricks.

This was strange to me. I asked one of the workers how this could work. He replied proudly: "We studied Mao Tze-tung's works carefully."

Weekly Food Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Beef, ham, butter and lard took a big jump this week, pushing food prices to the highest level since 1954.

Corn prices are the highest in 10 years, and the crop has been shriveled by drought. Since more than three-quarters of the corn supply is used to feed livestock, the housewife may have to pay still higher prices for meat, milk, butter and eggs.

Milk and egg production in July were down.

Wholesale butter prices this week were the highest in 14 years.

Pork edged seasonally higher in the Southwest, and jumped 2 to 5 cents for fresh cuts, 1 to 2 cents for bacon and 4 to 6 cents for smoked ham on the West Coast.

Bananas, pears and blueberries are in generally good supply.

The fruit outlook for this winter is good, too. There should be plenty of canned California cling peaches, pears, fruit cocktail, applesauce and pineapple. Unfavorable weather has limited the fresh vegetables available in some areas of the country and raised prices.

Variety Sewing Club To Meet Monday

The Variety Sewing Club will meet 8 p. m. Monday at the home of Miss Katherine Bockart, 2921 Parlin Place South, Grove City.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Divorce Won't Solve Problem

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a husband who can't keep his big mouth shut? Every time we have company he talks, talk, talks, talks! Nothing is too personal for him to talk about, and he's never heard a secret. When our guests leave, they know how much we owe, which relatives we don't get along and how much we paid for everything in the house.

No one tells us THEIR business, and of course we are seldom invited anywhere. My big-mouthed husband refuses to believe it's because he can't keep anything to himself. How can I wake him up short of dragging him through the divorce court?

DESPERATE
DEAR DESPERATE: And if you dragged him through the divorce court, what would you have accomplished? Dumping a man with all those lovely qualities you saw in him before you married him, who finally learned how to keep his mouth shut. But he wouldn't be yours any more. Try to educate the blabbermouth.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is in trouble. Just about everyone in the neighborhood knows about her. Well, I feel I shouldn't desert her now as we have been friends for a long time and I really like her.

My problem is people say I am getting a bad reputation from being her friend because she is bad. Should I stick with this girl although everyone says, "Birds of a feather fly together?"

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: "Birds of a feather may or may not always fly together," but I am reminded of another saying: "One swallow doesn't make a summer." And one mistake does not make a girl "bad." If she is your friend, she is your friend. Stick with her.

DEAR ABBY: My father passed away last year and this friend of my mother's has been coming here a lot lately trying to make friends with me. I just can't accept him because I have an idea that he and my mother were more than just friends before my father died. I can't talk to my mother about it but I just can't like this man either.

I go to Sunday school and know right from wrong, and I don't think I will ever be able to forgive my mother and this man for what they have done and are doing. Can you give me some advice? I am 14.

Helen Hayes Explain Why She Has Delayed Retiring

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I thought perhaps that the theater had changed and I was passed. How nice it is to have one's faith restored."

Helen Hayes was explaining why at age 64 she has put aside thoughts of retirement to sign on for a year with the APA Repertory Company. She has been appearing in two plays, "School for Scandal" and "Right You Are" at the Huntington Hartford Theater and will add a Walt Whitman adaptation as she travels to Ann Arbor, Mich., Toronto and back to the company's home base in New York.

Why, after 60 years of triumphs in the theater, would Miss Hayes take on such an exacting assignment?

Her main reason is altruistic: to help the APA, "which offers the best hope for the success of repertory in America."

The experience has already reaped personal rewards for her. She admitted a sense of defeatism about the American theater and her place in it.

"The whole concept of the new theater is something I could neither understand nor enjoy," she remarked at her rented Beverly Hills home. "It reflects the spirit that pervades everything today—education, art, music, Permissiveness is the key to everything.

"I began to feel that I was out of step perhaps in the process of aging I was unable to adjust to new ways. So I decided I had better try the new system myself. In doing so I managed to muck up a number of performances."

The vehicle was "The Glass Menagerie," which Miss Hayes had performed to acclaim in London and New York. When she was engaged for a State Department tour of Europe in the play, the director was a member of the new self-expression school.

"He told me, 'It doesn't matter how you do something, it's what you do.' That went against all my training. I had always been taught that how you did something was of utmost importance; there are 50 different ways of saying yes, each with a different meaning.

"But I went along with him. And I was miserable. I was confused and helpless; I had no idea of what I was doing. Finally in Helsinki I cracked. I called for a rehearsal of the company so we could start all over again and figure out what we were doing and why."

The experience helped push Miss Hayes toward her long-cherished notion of retiring. Her inclination was supported by visits to Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne and to Katharine Cornell.

"The three of us—Alfred and Lynn are as close to being one person as any two people can be—kept the road alive by touring all over the country after talkies had almost killed live theater," she said. "I wanted to see how they were doing in retirement.

"Lynn was sewing and Alfred was raising his vegetables and cooking. They talk about returning to the theater, but I don't think they ever will. They are happy as clams. So is Katherine. She had spent the whole winter at Martha's vineyard and had taken a course in English literature at the local high school. I don't think she'll ever step on a stage again."

Miss Hayes had harbored similar thoughts until she was approached by APA after she returned from a government-sponsored tour of the Orient.

"How glad I am to discover there are still dedicated actors schooled in the classic tradition," she enthused. "It restores my faith."

Stonerock Vegetables Fine Despite Poor Growing Year

Creed Stonerock of Swackhammer Road, Route 3, is an enthusiastic gardener. An equipment operator for the government he is employed in Columbus. When he's home he works at his garden projects. But he so enjoys gardening it does not seem like work to him. Besides he has three stalwart sons, Carl, Creed and Sammy who give a hand. Actually Creed Stonerock has four gardens going. The largest, about 25 by 50 feet, is a plot directly in back of the house. Here grow his cabbages, bell peppers, cucumbers, potatoes, onions, beets, carrots, squash and a few tomatoes. This might be called the No. 1 Garden.

THE NUMBER 2 garden is on a well drained hillside next to a building. Tomatoes thrive here. Also growing are bell peppers, potatoes and a strawberry patch.

The No. 3 garden is a row of sweet potatoes in the vegetable patch of the next door neighbor, Herschel Rose. The No. 4 garden is on the Gene Petty-cott lot.

Pettycott said that he'd rather have vegetables than weeds growing on his land. So a deal was made. This is where the sweetcorn and pumpkins and melons grow. Peanuts flourish in this garden, too.

The Stonerock place encompasses five acres. They have two plum trees, a pear, two apple and 23 peach trees. The peaches are seedlings. Mrs. Stonerock tossed out some peels and seeds one year. The following spring little peach trees sprouted.

The Stonerocks have a pasture beyond the garden where their while Charolais cattle graze. They have a splendid milk cow named Clara that has a calf called Junior. And Mrs. Stonerock churns and makes her own butter when Clara is producing milk.

THE STONEROCK boys help in the garden, but, Mrs. Stonerock takes no credit. She cans the garden produce, however, which the men raise. And she looks after the flowers.

Mr. Stonerock says a rototiller is invaluable as a garden implement. When we questioned him about the success of his gardening ventures, he said he is particular about where he buys his seeds and plants.

The cabbages always come from Nelsonville. And the Stonerock cabbages are superb. Heads are 15 inches in diameter. He has some interesting double-headed plants.

His seeds come from the Kochheiser firm here. As to why he has so few garden pests he says credit goes to Blue Dragon garden dust which he also buys at Kochheiser.

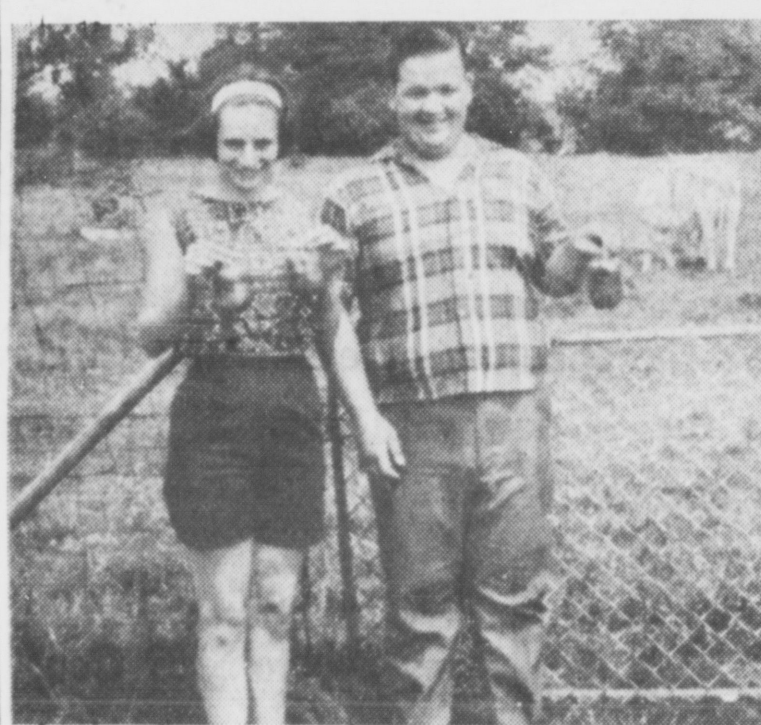

We chided the Stonerocks severely for not taking entries to the Pickaway County Fair. Their vegetables give proof of excellent horticultural practices.

THE STONEROCKS have lived at this address for about eight years. So they know well the ups and downs of gardening. This has been a hard year. But they outwitted Jack Frost by covering their strawberries and the result was most satisfactory. They could not save the apple crop, however.

Last year their apple tree produced an abundance of fruit and they said this year the tree was heavily loaded with blossoms. The frost got the blooms, however. Only two or three apples are visible on the tree now.

MRS. ED WALLACE IN HER GARDEN — There's always something blooming in Mrs. Wallace's N. Court St. garden that borders Hargus Creek. Right now its phlox and daylilies as the basic plants. But hydrangea, red hibiscus, gloriosa daisies and zinnias add their beauty to the garden picture.

IN THE GARDEN — Creed Stonerock (left), Mrs. Stonerock and Sammy take time out to show the garden editor one of the best vegetable gardens in the county. The family has a well which provides water in case of drought. The family rototiller manned by Sammy keeps the vegetables weed-free. In this picture Mrs. Stonerock receives a large cabbage from her husband. Cabbages with outer leaves measured almost a yard in diameter. Young fruit trees are seen in the distance.

MRS. ED WALLACE IN HER GARDEN — There's always something blooming in Mrs. Wallace's N. Court St. garden that borders Hargus Creek. Right now its phlox and daylilies as the basic plants. But hydrangea, red hibiscus, gloriosa daisies and zinnias add their beauty to the garden picture.

Phlox, Daylilies Provide Color in Wallace Garden

Mrs. Ed Wallace, 425 N. Court St., maintains a backyard garden with a great deal of August bloom.

It's an old garden. Mrs. Wallace has lived at the present location for more than 30 years.

Trees are mature and vigorous. The lot borders Hargus Creek and trees growing along the high bank include an enormous hackberry, the tallest of Chinese Elms and a weeping Japanese Cherry that would make an empress envious.

Right now borders are a mass of blossom. Basic plants (and this is as it should be) are phlox and daylilies.

PHLOX are brilliant red, magenta, pink and white. Last year Mrs. Wallace had only one white phlox plant. This year she has a number of them — big clumps, too. They re-seed and thrive in the semi-shady location.

Mrs. Wallace bought most of her daylilies at McVickers near Williamsport. She evidently has an eye for good plant material because her choice of seedlings turned out to be very fine specimens.

The zinnias were at their best in the Wallace garden. Gloriosa daisies raised from seeds provided a patch of gold. A tall hydrangea in the back-ground was beginning to bloom.

The flower borders are deep so that this gardener can have iris at iris time and spring blooming flowers earlier. A panel of grass runs the length of the lot surrounded by the deep flower borders.

Mike Alkire, a grandson who made his home with Mrs. Wallace when he was a youngster, recalls that each spring his grandmother would have him spade up a little more of the grass area for flowers.

Mrs. Wallace has one flower-bed her grandsons spaded up for her that is heart-shaped and bordered with big stones. Here some fine looking marigolds are growing. Mrs. Wallace laughingly recalled the boys' interest in this heart-shaped flower-bed.

IT SO happens that Mrs. Wallace likes dahlias. And dahlias she has. They are fine plants well staked and ready for their season of bloom.

This is a big garden. But Mrs. Wallace doesn't mind that it consumes a lot of her time. "That's what I like," she says.

Garden Gossip

Not much boasting about tomatoes this year. The garden editor has missed this.

Mrs. Rick Spies, however, says she believes some of the best tomato growers have been plagued with hard luck. Not, she added, that she was an expert. But she knows experts. She's been teasing them, too.

This year people are measuring their hibiscus blossoms. Mrs. Willison Leist, who won a pink one that came from the John Kennedy Gardens in Dublin says her blossoms measured eight and two thirds inches across. This hibiscus will winter 10 below zero weather.

This caused me to rush out to my garden and bring in a blossom of red hibiscus. It measured eight inches across. So out I went again and found one that measured nine inches.

Actually our northern hibiscus will stand a great deal of cold weather. Giant hibiscus were introduced in my childhood. The super - giant, said to be 50 per cent larger, came after World War II.

Wayside Gardens say their hibiscus will measure from 10 to 12 inches across. This is a mighty big flower . . . equaled only by the dahlia and the sunflower.

I recollect when Billy Kellstadt returned from the Pacific in World War II he told about the giant hibiscus blooms in New Zealand. Perhaps some enterprising hybridist saw them too.

Mrs. Ed Wallace has a winter hardy hibiscus plant with such refined foliage. The leaves look like Japanese maples. The flower is a beautiful red. Our northern hibiscus has coarse foliage.

Mrs. Michael Schaffer, 675 Garden Parkway, is the fifth person we know to install a misting nozzle. From all reports all five are propagating plants in a most efficient fashion.

When we visited at "Caldwoods" the John Caldwells reported that their wrens had raised five different families this summer. One set of wrens that is!

Mrs. Ron Spence, Holiday Lane, is a most enthusiastic flower grower. She has excellent luck with plants, although quite new at it.

O, yes. One more thing about Mrs. Ed Wallace. She gave me a plant of heart - leaved forgetmenot one time. Each spring it is a pleasant moment when the forgetmenot blooms. Mrs. Wallace says hers spread and she has lots of them. They are very dainty and a bright true blue.

Due Aug. 30

Ohio garden club members not only have the chance to see the beautiful Dawes Arboretum in Licking County near Newark, but also will experience a program based on the premise that conservation can be enjoyable as well as worthwhile on Aug. 30.

To be held in the new administration building at Dawes from 10 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. (standard time), the Garden Club of Ohio's opening conservation conference of the fall season will feature two specialists from the Ohio State University extension service: William F. Coven on forestry, and Thomas Stockdale on wildlife.

Other program participants will be Mrs. L. Merle Hostetter, speaking on "A Bird Sanctuary for Your Community," and Mrs. Donald E. Ehlenfeldt, GCOO's conservation chairman who has arranged the conference. The GCOO's position on the proposed Grand Canyon dam will be discussed.

A new wildlife film, how clubs can compete for conservation awards and exhibits of conservation materials available to clubs, will be other conference highlights.

Garden club members planning to attend are asked to register in advance by sending their name, address and $1 registration fee to Mrs. Ehlenfeldt, 1912 Bremerton Road, Lyndhurst, Ohio, 44124. Stonerock Vegetables Fine Despite Poor Growing Year

Creed Stonerock of Swackhammer Road, Route 3, is an enthusiastic gardener.

An equipment operator for the government he is employed in Columbus. When he's home he works at his garden projects.

But he so enjoys gardening it does not seem like work to him. Besides he has three stalwart sons, Carl, Creed and Sammy who give a hand.

Actually Creed Stonerock has four gardens going. The largest, about 25 by 50 feet, is a plot directly in back of the house. Here grow his cabbages, bell peppers, cucumbers, potatoes, onions, beets, carrots, squash and a few tomatoes. This might be called the No. 1 Garden.

THE NUMBER 2 garden is on a well drained hillside next to a building. Tomatoes thrive here. Also growing are bell peppers, potatoes and a strawberry patch.

The No. 3 garden is a row of sweet potatoes in the vegetable patch of the next door neighbor, Herschel Rose. The No. 4 garden is on the Gene Petty-cott lot.

Pettycott said that he'd rather have vegetables than weeds growing on his land. So a deal was made. This is where the sweetcorn and pumpkins and melons grow. Peanuts flourish in this garden, too.

The Stonerock place encompasses five acres. They have two plum trees, a pear, two apple and 23 peach trees.

The peaches are seedlings. Mrs. Stonerock tossed out some seedlings and seeds one year. The following spring little peach trees sprouted.

The Stonerocks have a pasture beyond the garden where their while Charolais cattle graze. They have a splendid milk cow named Clara that has a calf called Junior. And Mrs. Stonerock churns and makes her own butter when Clara is producing milk.

THE STONEROCK boys help in the garden, but, Mrs. Stonerock takes no credit. She can the garden produce, however, which the men raise. And she looks after the flowers.

Mr. Stonerock says a rototiller is invaluable as a garden implement.

When we questioned him about the success of his gardening ventures, he said he is particular about where he buys his seeds and plants.

The cabbages always come from Nelsonville. And the Stonerock cabbages are superb. Heads are 15 inches in diameter. He has some interesting double-headed plants.

His seeds come from the Kochheiser firm here. As to why he has so few garden posts he says credit goes to Blue Dragon garden dust which he also buys at Kochheiser.

We chided the Stonerocks severely for not taking entries to the Pickaway County Fair. Their vegetables give proof of excellent horticultural practices.

THE STONEROCKS have lived at this address for about eight years. So they know well the ups and downs of gardening. This has been a hard year. But they outwitted Jack Frost by covering their strawberries and the result was most satisfactory. They could not save the apple crop, however.

Last year their apple tree produced an abundance of fruit and they said this year the tree was heavily loaded with blossoms. The frost got the blooms, however. Only two or three apples are visible on the tree now

IN THE GARDEN — Creed Stonerock (left), Mrs. Stonerock and Sammy take time out to show the garden editor one of the best vegetable gardens in the county. The family has a well which provides water in case of drought. The family rototiller manned by Sammy keeps the vegetables weed-free. In this picture Mrs. Stonerock receives a large cabbage from her husband. Cabbages with outer leaves measured almost a yard in diameter. Young fruit trees are seen in the distance.

VIEWING THE FAMILY GARDEN — Carl Stonerock (right) escorts his bride of six weeks through the family garden. They are holding up some of the prime bell peppers found in the vegetable patch. The new Mrs. Stonerock (formerly Sandy Hibbler of Brice) is unacquainted with vegetable gardening, but thinks it is a fine hobby. In the background are Clara, the family's Charolais cow, and her calf, Junior. Clara ordinarily provides the Stonerocks with all the milk and butter they need. But right now Junior comes first.

blossoms have the finest blue coloring when grown in poor soil. Mine are a heavenly blue. Leaves are used in salads. Borage leaves have a funny odor. I'd hesitate to eat 'em.

Borage has drooping flower clusters. In fact they face the wrong way to be showy.

Our gladioli are winter hardy. This is almost the eighth year for them. The week after the fair we had spikes of bloom that were chin high. These glads were a disappointing color so I did not bother to dig them one fall. The next year they came up and have done so each succeeding season.

Shelby Teegardin left his glad corms in the ground last year and that was that. He never saw them again. Sorry! I wish I could reassure gardeners this was the thing to do.

My own winter hardy glads are in a very well drained location. And I do not disturb them.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, Route 4, Circleville, have a particularly pleasing combination of foliage plants near their back door — stachys and ajuga. The lamb's ear is a gray woolly leaf and the ajuga a deep bronze color. Both are low growing.

Kelly Owens, Ashville service station operator, has zinnias that are excellently grown. The flowers are four inches across. He has them planted near his office. We have seen a picture in color of these flowers. We also have a bouquet of them. They are fantastic.

Mrs. Lyman Penn returned from Hawaii just in time to come back by plane. The next week plane service was stopped due to the strike. Mrs. Penn said the flowers were unbelievably lovely on the Islands. She saw big trees with flaming red blossoms.

Mrs. Penn and myself were chasing calves out of her clover field Friday evening. The calves were ours. I set about to reinforce the fence with an old post and stirred up some red ants. These are really toughies. A person would be in trouble if he had to stay in a red ant hill for very long. It did not take me long to move.

We talked to Miss Dhel Renick to see if the recent rains had perked up the Renick garden. They had. The geraniums are blooming their best. The gerbera is in blossom. In short everything is at its blooming best. Looks like I'll have to visit the garden again.

Speaking of visiting gardens: everybody who comes to the house is practically kidnapped into strolling through my flower garden. The other day somebody came and I said, "Do stroll with me through the pleasure garden!" My visitor said, "I saw it last week." But I made her stroll anyway. Actually I think the first time she saw it was when it was prettiest.

Right now the garden needs some more yellow. The daylilies have finished blooming. If it were not for the tansy there'd be no yellow. Each spring I have to pull big roots of tansy out or it would take the place. Then I was cursing it. Now I love it.

Mrs. Nelson Jonnes, Minneapolis, Minn., said that hybridizing had come to be the hobby of a great many people. If you hit the jackpot with some new flower you may be quite wealthy as a result.

Mrs. Laura Lutz of Yellow Bud and I are aiming at the same jackpot. A double daylily! I have a fine large red daylily called Bess Ross. Each time a bloom came out I hustled around and injected it with pollen from an orange double daylily — common roadside variety. Two seed pods have formed.

Charles (Children's Shop) Boggs had pitched the pansies which grew in the window box. He plans to replace them with chrysanthemums. This means fall is on its way.

And speaking of the Childrens Shop, Dorothy Jonnes knows somebody who knows where a hummingbird nest is. This I have never seen. I have heard the nests are about the size of a thimble.

Mrs. Turney Pontius has a quail nesting in her flower garden. There are about 10 eggs in it. The eggs are quite large — almost the size of a bantam hen's. The nest is on the ground.

Late Gardens Brightened With Phlox

Summer blooming phlox is coming into its own.

This delightful, tall, herbaceous perennial can redeem the July - August doldrums which seem to follow the dazzling June bloom. Few gardeners in this area, however, seem to rely on phlox varieties.

In recent years, due largely to the work of the late Capt. Symons-Jeune, rich new colors have been developed.

Summer blooming perennial phlox are varieties of the wild phlox paniculata which grows from New York to Florida and phlox Carolina which is native from Ohio to Florida.

PHLOX will grow in a sunny or semi-shady location. It requires, for its best performance, well-drained, rich soil.

Seed heads should always be removed and destroyed before the coming of young plants that will inherit the magenta shades of the wildlings.

Phlox clumps should be divided every three years. Local gardeners suggest moving the plant to a new location for thrifter bloom.

They like water and do well in New England and the Pacific Northwest. But even in Ohio they can brighten and redeem the dull blossomless perennial border at this time of year.

Phlox are not expensive—even named varieties are within the reach of budget gardeners.

By all means consult catalogs this fall for bright new colors. Many nurseries are offering collections at an interesting price.

Get Ready Now For Grasshopper, Beetle Menace

A favorite old saying is "Don't cross your bridges until you come to them."

In gardening this is not too good a maxim. Take grasshoppers and blister beetles for instance. They are bound to invade gardens this month. Not too noticeable at first, the young start eating foliage. And they eat and eat and eat.

Between them they make shambles of vigorous foliage. Blister beetles for instance will skeletonize leaves. They look a little like a firefly. They are black edged gray. As they consume foliage they grow in girth and eventually look like over-sized fireflies.

The Brooklyn Botanic Garden recommends that these pests, which sometimes actually devour flowers too, be sprayed with Sevin, DDT or lindane.

Grasshoppers start out small. They can eat fast and furiously even when they are young. They often appear in large invasions. Malathion will discourage them.

Have your spray ready because the invasion is imminent. Grasshoppers like everything while blister beetles like tomatoe, flowerheads of phlox and most especially clematis.

Another Big-Name Wedding Scheduled for Aug. 27

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although almost unnoticed in the tumult and glare of publicity of Luci Baines Johnson's wedding, there's another marriage this summer with high official interest.

The vice president's son, Robert A. Humphrey, marries a stunning blue-eyed blonde of Norwegian descent on Aug. 27 in Minneapolis, Minn.

It should be a picture wedding: Bob is 22, dark and handsome. His bride, Donna Erickson, 21, is a 5-foot-4 former beauty queen from Hampton, Minn.

Like Luci, Donna insists her wedding is "a family affair."

Like Luci, Donna plans a Saturday nuptial Mass. She is Roman Catholic. Bob is Protestant. And like Luci, Donna chose to move her ceremony from her parish church to a larger sanctuary, the 1,200-seat St. Olaf's Catholic church in Minneapolis.

Bob and Donna's wedding originally was scheduled for July 9, but was postponed when she was hospitalized for three weeks with pneumonia.

She was out of the hospital Aug. 6, but that was Luci's day to become Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent at the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington. Vice President and Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey attended that wedding. Bob and Donna did not.

Whereas hundreds of newsmen covered the Nugent rites, the Humphrey's Washington press office said it has only about a dozen requests for coverage.

Donna's wedding party will include 16 persons. Her bridal gown is as carefully guarded a secret as was Luci's. An uncle, Larry Doffing of Hampton, Minn., will give her away.

The reception will be at the Humphrey's lakeside retreat in Waverly, Minn., 40 miles west of Minneapolis. Green and white tents will be set up on the lawn and a combo will provide music.

During the postponement, Bob moved into the couple's one-bedroom honeymoon apartment with a college classmate, Greg

She is a judge and lecturer of many years' experience whose intense interest in dried materials has been the incentive for several books which will be available.

Mrs. Aldrich is past president of the National Corgie Club and Director of the New York Corgie Club. She will combine fresh flowers with dried material in her program.

Dr. Donald Wyman, horticulturist, The Arnold Arboretum, Harvard University, will be speaking on "Colorful Shrubs and Trees in American and British Gardens." He is past president of the American Horticulture Society, past president of the American Assn. of Botanical Gardens and Arboreta, and author of several books.

Awards earned during the year will be announced throughout the convention.

The Garden Clubs of Region 4 have planned an enjoyable two days for all who will attend the convention.

Schermann, who will be a groomsman in the wedding.

Bob and Donna's romance blossomed at Mankato State College where both were students.

They met two years ago.

The 112-pound Donna had sung her way to the "Miss Hastings" title with a rendition of "Secret Service" from the musical, "Mr. President."

They announced their engagement last New Years Eve — a week after Luci and Pat married.

Bob plans to graduate next June with a business administration degree. Donna received her degree in elementary education this June, and plans to teach second grade this year in West Mankato, near the college.

Here's Recipe for 14-Day Sweet Pickles

We just thought we would be able to get a recipe for pickles of some sort when we saw all the cucumbers on the vines at the Creed Stonerock garden.

Mrs. Stonerock had started her 14-Day sweet pickles. She gave the garden editor the recipe she uses . . . Troublesome? Yes, but worth it.

Does she ever get mixed up on which day to do what? No, because she has her calendar right there and writes down what to do the next day.

The recipe follows: In a clean stone jar put two gallons of cucumbers washed and sliced lengthwise. (Regardless of the size, cucumbers must be sliced or they will shrivel.)

DISSOLVE two cups of salt in one gallon of boiling water. While hot pour over pickles.

Cover and weigh pickles down with plate and let stand for one week.

On the 8th day drain. Pour one gallon of boiling water over them. Let stand 24 hours. On the 9th day drain. Put one tablespoon of powdered alum in one gallon of boiling water. Pour over the drained pickles. Let stand 24 hours.

State Drops Protest Of Dismissed Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state dropped its appeal today in the case of a Columbus man whose burglary and robbery convictions were reversed because the prosecutor and trial judge commented on his failure to take the stand.

The Ohio Supreme Court announced approval of an application to dismiss an appeal from the 10th District Appellate Court's reversal of the conviction of Tony Louis in the 1963 burglary of the Louis Bias home here. The appeals court returned the case to Franklin County Common Pleas Court for a new trial.

Aqaba, in Jordan, will have wide, palm-fringed boulevards and a new town of 40,000 next to the old mud-brick village of 6,000 inhabitants.

blooms have the finest blue coloring when grown in poor soil. Mine are a heavenly blue. Leaves are used in salads. Borage leaves have a funny odor. I'd hesitate to eat 'em.

Borage has drooping flower clusters. In fact they face the wrong way to be showy.

Our gladioli are winter hardy. This is almost the eighth year for them. The week after the fair we had spikes of bloom that were chin high. These glads were a disappointing color so I did not bother to dig them one fall. The next year they came up and have done so each succeeding season.

Shelby Teegardin left his glad corms in the ground last year and that was that. He never saw them again. Sorry! I wish I could reassure gardeners this was the thing to do.

My own winter hardy glads are in a very well drained location. And I do not disturb them.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McKenzie, Route 4, Circleville, have a particularly pleasing combination of foliage plants near their back door — stachys and ajuga. The lamb's ear is a gray wooly leaf and the ajuga a deep bronze color. Both are low growing.

Kelly Owens, Ashville service station operator, has zinnias that are excellently grown. The flowers are four inches across. He has them planted near his office. We have seen a picture in color of these flowers. We also have a bouquet of them. They are fantastic.

Mrs. Lyman Penn returned from Hawaii just in time to come back by plane. The next week plane service was stopped due to the strike. Mrs. Penn said the flowers were unbelievably lovely on the Islands. She saw big trees with flaming red blossoms.

Mrs. Penn and myself were chasing calves out of her clover field Friday evening. The calves were ours. I set about to reinforce the fence with an old post and stirred up some

Late Gardens Brightened With Phlox

Summer blooming phlox is coming into its own.

This delightful, tall, herbaceous perennial, can redeem the July - August doldrums which seem to follow the dazzling June bloom. Few gardeners in this area, however, seem to rely on phlox varieties.

In recent years, due largely to the work of the late Capt. Symons-Jeune, rich new colors have been developed.

Summer blooming perennial phlox are varieties of the wild phlox paniculata which grows from New York to Florida and phlox Carolina which is native from Ohio to Florida.

PHLOX will grow in a sunny or semi-shady location. It requires, for its best performance, well-drained, rich soil.

Seed heads should always be removed and destroyed before the coming of young plants that will inherit the magenta shades of the wildlings.

Phlox clumps should be divided every three years. Local gardeners suggest moving the plant to a new location for thrifter bloom.

They like water and do well in New England and the Pacific Northwest. But even in Ohio they can brighten and redeem the dull blossomless perennial border at this time of year.

Phlox are not expensive—even named varieties are within the reach of budget gardeners.

By all means consult catalogs this fall for bright new colors. Many nurseries are offering collections at an interesting price.

Few Mourn Passing of The $2 Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judging from the response thus far, the $2 bill apparently will have few mourners at its funeral.

Treasury Department officials said Wednesday they had received little adverse reaction to the announcement a week ago that no more twos would be printed because of a lack of public demand.

There has been a heavier than normal demand for the bill at some banks since the announcement, but government officials expect this and aren't concerned. They view it as an effort by some Americans to obtain souvenirs of what will become part of the past.

In fact, most of the roughly score of letters which the treasurer's office has received thus far want to know where twos can be obtained or enclose a check with an order for up to

The bill was first printed during the Revolutionary War. It has been made continuously since 1862.

Present plans call for continued use of the twos as long as they last—the average life of a two is 87 months.

$50 worth. The orders are being returned with notes telling the senders to get their twos at a bank.

The bill was first printed during the Revolutionary War. It has been made continuously since 1862.

Only $139.3 million in twos are outstanding, about a third of one per cent of the total paper currency.

Present plans call for continued use of the twos as long as they last—the average life of a two is 87 months.

Mays Chalks Historic 535th Homer

Willie Is Great, But Koufax Elbow Fails; Reds Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Willie felt great; Sandy felt pain.

Mays' feeling came in the fourth inning Wednesday when he hit a home run that triggered San Francisco to a 4-3 victory over St. Louis.

Koufax's came in the second inning of Los Angeles' 5-1 loss to Cincinnati when he hurt his arthritic left elbow.

The home run was a historic one. It was the 535th of Mays' career and made him the second-greatest homer hitter and the greatest right-handed homer hitter of all time.

The blast, on a 3-2 pitch from Ray Washburn, sailed over the right field fence at Candlestick Park and vaulted Mays ahead of Jimmy Foxx on the all-time list.

The Giant center fielder, who tied Foxx the night before, now trails only Babe Ruth and his 714 homers. Ruth batted left-handed.

"I feel real great about it," Mays said afterward. "This is the first time anyone has achieved this in so short a time. The rest of those guys had 20 years, and I've had only 15."

Koufax was seeking his 20th victory Wednesday night but instead wound up with a sore elbow. He hurt it in the second inning when he struck out the side but didn't leave until the fifth.

"It's nothing different from what has happened to him before," said Dr. Robert Kerlan, Dodger team physician. "The elbow hurt him all season, but usually the pain is between pitching assignments."

"It's possible that Sandy will be able to warm up on the sidelines two days from now and then take his usual starting turn if the elbow is not swollen."

Koufax, whose next scheduled turn would be Sunday, received a cortisone injection in the elbow, then placed it in a bucket of ice — the usual ice treatment he gets after a game.

In other National League games, New York edged Pittsburgh, cutting the Pirates' lead to one-half game over San Francisco; Chicago trimmed Philadelphia 5-3 in 10 innings and Atlanta whipped Houston 6-1.

In the American League, Baltimore beat Boston 8-4, Detroit defeated New York 4-2, Minnesota downed California 5-3, Chicago swept Kansas City 4-2 and 5-1 and Cleveland topped Washington 5-3.

Heat Stroke Blamed For Death of Griddler

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — An autopsy indicated that Robert W. Moccabab, 16-year-old high school junior who died Wednesday after football practice, died of a heat stroke. Dr. Lloyd Locascio, assistant coroner, said the exact cause of death has not been established, but that the autopsy findings were compatible with heat stroke.

Lady Golfers Complete 2nd Round at PCC

Second round matches of the Ladies Club Championship Tournament have been completed at the Pickaway Country Club.

Bette Fraser was victorious over Miriam Young, Mary Carpenter beat Hester Weldon, Jan McKelvey defeated Mary Lou Vaughn and Erma Hedges won from Lucille Wilson.

In the semifinal round Bette Fraser will meet Mary Carpenter and Jan McKelvey will play Erma Hedges.

Winners of the 9-hole Ladies Tournament were Alece Stanton over Doris Luna, Elsie Adkins over Caroline Champion, Dottie Smith over June Bender, Sue Spire over Peg Stallings and Jean Adams and Marsha Moore, byes.

In the Family Tournament Erma and Ed Hedges defeated Shirley and Dean McFadden. The Hedges play the winners of a match between Peg and Jim Stallings and Lucille and Roy Wilson.

Erma Hedges, Marsha Moore, Betty Young and Miriam Young participated in the Ladies' Golf Invitational Tourney at Lock-boue Air Force Base Tuesday. Mrs. Hedges won second in the low gross division with 92. Mrs. Young had low putts with 31.

Last Friday the weekly Twilight Golf Tournament was won by Hester and Lemuel Weldon with a net 41 though six holes.

Daddy Wags Calls Shots Against Nats

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The way I'm seeing the ball these days, even lefthanders don't bother me," Leon Wagner said Wednesday night — and he said it before the game, not afterward.

"In fact," Daddy Wags continued, "I'm going to hit one (a homer) against that dude tonight, just to prove it."

Wagner lived up to his promise, and he couldn't have picked a better spot. With the Indians trailing the Washington Senators 3-2 and two men on base, Wagner came up in the seventh inning and slammed the ball over the fence in right center, and Cleveland went on to win 5-3. The ball hit the 463-foot sign on the first hop.

The "Dude" Wagner referred to was Pete Richert, the Senators' fine lefthander. Richert was tough on the Indians until Rocky Colavito hit a solo home run—his 26th—in the sixth inning.

Vermont Stallion Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gay Parker of White River Junction, Vt., drove his 5-year-old stallion Savings Bond to victory in Scioto Downs' featured $1,100 claiming pace Wednesday night.

In a three-horse photo finish, Savings Bond edged Sugar Road and Ace Admiral, winning by three-quarters of a length in 2:06 for the mile. The winner paid $6.20, $4.40, $3.20; Sugar Road $5.60, $3.40, and Ace Admiral $3.20.

SPORTS

The Circleville Herald, Thur. Aug. 18, 1966 13

High Enthusiasm Level Said Mays' Biggest Asset

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, the second-greatest home run hitter of all time, is a man who never ceased to be a youngster.

"The thing about Willie is he never has lost his enthusiasm," said Herman Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants.

"He loves baseball. No matter how many records he sets or how much money he makes, he'll still be a kid out there in the field."

Willie hit his 535th home run in the fourth inning of the game against the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

This broke his tie with Jimmy Foxx, the old star of the Philadelphia Athletics, and made him the greatest right-hand home run hitter in baseball history.

Now only Babe Ruth's remarkable record of 714 lies ahead.

"I'll have to average 40 a year to catch up with that guy, the Babe," Willie said recently. "I don't think I can do it."

Many baseball men disagree. "Willie will be playing baseball better when he's in a rocking chair," said Leo Durocher, who was manager of the then New York Giants when Willie was brought up in 1951.

Mays is 35. His salary, traditionally a baseball secret, is reliably reported to be $125,000 a year. He lives in a swank, five-tiered, split-level home on top of a winding hill in San Francisco.

His 7-year-old adopted son, Micheal, lives with him part of the time. Willie and his wife, Margherite, are divorced.

Mays, born in the little village of Westfield, Ala., May 6, 1931, has come a long way from his humble beginning. He dresses like Cesar Romero. He has fattened his baseball income with business enterprises and endorsements from soft drink, toy and sporting goods firms.

The spectacular Negro outfielder is renowned among baseball followers for his famed basket catch just as he is for his home run power.

When a fly ball is hit to center field, the fleet Giant ace races toward it, his cap flying off in the process, and calmly catches the ball with both hands capped —basket style—in the vicinity of his stomach.

The normal, and supposedly the safest way to catch fly balls, is over the head.

Willie broke into the major leagues with the Giants in 1951 in Philadelphia. Since then, he has been on the game's escalator. He has led the National League in home runs four times —1955, 1962, 1964 and 1965. His best year was 52 homers in 1965. He was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1954 and 1965. He was acclaimed baseball's Player of the Year in 1954.

Willie began the year with 505 homers, standing fifth in the all-time list behind Ruth, Foxx, Ted Williams and Mel Ott. One by one he passed the various milestones.

The question in baseball is: How much longer can Willie carry on?

"I don't know," Mays says. "Every man is different. I would like to play until I am 39 or 40, but we will just have to wait and see."

Boxer's Lawyer To File Protest

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A Seattle attorney plans to ask that the Las Vegas boxing match in which Seattle's Eddie Cotton lost to Jose Torres in a 15-round decision be declared a no-contest match.

Clay Nixon, the attorney, said he was acting on behalf of Cotton and his manager, George Chermers.

Nixon said the basis of the protest would be a television videotape which, he said, shows that the 14th round of the light heavyweight championship bout was "a minimum of 20 seconds short."

Trick-Shooter To Attack Cong with Golf Balls

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hahn is preparing to attack the Communist Viet Cong with one of capitalism's most bourgeois weapons — golf balls.

For two weeks, beginning

Latin Marvels At Quality Of U.S. Golf

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "Ten years ago there were 10 or 15 great players on your pro golf tour. Now there are 100 or more," observed Argentine veteran Roberto DeVicenzo as he prepared for the $100,000 Insurance City Open, starting today at the Wethersfield Country Club.

Illustrating DeVicenzo's point was Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., who won Wednesday's pro-amateur tuneup with a seven-under-par 64. Coody is 32nd on the money-winning list this year with $28,645.

"The clubs are improved, the courses are in better condition, and there's so much more money to attract the players," the 43-year-old DeVicenzo said.

He did not hesitate to admit that the lure of lots of cash helped bring him to the United States this year. DeVicenzo took first prize in the Greater Dallas Open in April and has amassed $22,412 in five months of play, ranking him 41st on the money list.

The par-71, 6,568-yard Wethersfield course, softened by rain Monday and Tuesday, was taken apart by most of the 40 pros playing in the pro-amateur.

Behind Coody's 64, Australian Kel Nagle, George Archer and Bob Goalby scored 67's, and Aussie Bruce Crampton and Bobby Nichols each had 68.

Sept. 24, the famed trick-shot artist will pelt the balls—50 dozen of them, 600 in all, inscribed with the word Peace—into the infested jungles.

Then he'll sit back and watch the fun.

"I hardly expect it to change the course of the war," the handsome entertainer said today. "But I'll tell you one thing—it'll drive those fellows batty."

Hahn's primary purpose in visiting Viet Nam is to entertain Uncle Sam's military men there with his clever and remarkable repertoire that has fascinated golfers and non-golfers throughout the world.

"I'll give my show and then belt the balls into the thickets," Hahn explained. "These all will be brand new, tournament type balls that sell for a buck and a quarter retail in the United States. They won't be cut-up mullies. They will have been struck only once."

"But nobody will dare shag them. And I doubt if the Viet Cong would get near one of them. They'd think they were a booby-trap for sure."

"If anyone does pick a ball up, he'll find the word 'Peace' written on it. It may start him thinking. Maybe the Viet Cong all will desert and come over here to be caddies."

The dark, curly-haired Hahn has not lacked for imagination or enterprise since he quit the tour in 1948 — "I didn't make enough money to make my ball," he says—and turned to the entertainment phase of the game.

Hahn carries a bag that weighs 90 pounds. He hits perfect shots with garden rakes. He swings shafts made of rubber hose. He hits 225 yard drives, standing on one foot, on his knees and with one foot on a folding chair. With rare precision, he picks off tree balls swinging on a string like a pendulum.

Once he used to drive balls off the teeth of pretty helpers while blindfolded, but had to give this up when others attempted the feat and fractured a few jaws.

"If I could get a Viet Cong to submit, I might reinstitute it in my act," Hahn said.

Citation, horse of the year in 1948, won 19 of his 20 races and finished second in the one he lost.

Daddy Wags Calls Shots Against Nats

CLEVELAND (AP) — "The way I'm seeing the ball these days, even lefthanders don't bother me," Leon Wagner said Wednesday night — and he said it before the game, not afterward.

"In fact," Daddy Wags continued, "I'm going to hit one (a homer) against that dude tonight, just to prove it."

Wagner lived up to his promise, and he couldn't have picked a better spot. With the Indians trailing the Washington Senators 3-2 and two men on base, Wagner came up in the seventh inning and slammed the ball over the fence in right center, and Cleveland went on to win 5-3. The ball hit the 463-foot sign on the first hop.

The "Dude" Wagner referred to was Pete Richert, the Senators' fine lefthander. Richert was tough on the Indians until Rocky Colavito hit a solo home run—his 26th—in the sixth inning.

Vermont Stallion Wins Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gay Parker of White River Junction, Vt., drove his 5-year-old stallion Savings Bond to victory in Scioto Downs' featured $1,100 claiming race Wednesday night.

In a three-horse photo finish, Savings Bond edged Sugar Road and Ace Admiral, winning by three-quarters of a length in 2:06 for the mile. The winner paid $6.20, $4.40, $3.20; Sugar Road $5.60, $3.40, and Ace Admiral $3.20.

High Enthusiasm Level Said Mays' Biggest Asset

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays, the second greatest home run hitter of all time, is a man who never ceased to be a youngster.

"The thing about Willie is he never has lost his enthusiasm," said Herman Franks, manager of the San Francisco Giants. "He loves baseball. No matter how many records he sets or how much money he makes, he'll still be a kid out there in the field."

Willie hit his 535th home run in the fourth inning of the game against the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday.

This broke his tie with Jimmy Foxx, the old star of the Philadelphia Athletics, and made him the greatest right-hand home run hitter in baseball history.

Now only Babe Ruth's remarkable record of 714 lies ahead.

"I'll have to average 40 a year to catch up with that guy, the Babe," Willie said recently. "I don't think I can do it."

Many baseball men disagree. "Willie will be playing baseball better when he's in a rocking chair," said Leo Durocher, who was manager of the then New York Giants when Willie was brought up in 1951. Now Leo manages the Chicago Cubs.

Mays is 35. His salary, traditionally a baseball secret, is reliably reported to be $125,000 a year. He lives in a swank, five-tiered, split level home on top of a winding hill in San Francisco.

His 7-year-old adopted son, Micheal, lives with him part of the time. Willie and his wife, Margherite, are divorced.

Mays, born in the little village of Westfield, Ala., May 6, 1931, has come a long way from his humble beginning. He dresses like Cesar Romero. He has fattened his baseball income with business enterprises and endorsements from soft drink, toy and sporting goods firms.

The spectacular Negro outfielder is renowned among baseball followers for his famed basket catch just as he is for his home run power.

When a fly ball is hit to center field, the fleet Giant ace races toward it, his cap flying off in the process, and calmly catches the ball with both hands capped —basket style—in the vicinity of his stomach.

The normal, and supposedly the safest way to catch fly balls, is over the head.

Willie broke into the major leagues with the Giants in 1951 in Philadelphia. Since then, he has been on the game's escalator. He has led the National League in home runs four times —1955, 1962, 1964 and 1965. His best year was 52 homers in 1965. He was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1954 and 1965. He was acclaimed baseball's Player of the Year in 1954.

Willie began the year with 505 homers, standing fifth in the all-time list behind Ruth, Foxx, Ted Williams and Mel Ott. One by one he passed the various milestones.

The question in baseball is: How much longer can Willie carry on?

"I don't know," Mays says. "Every man is different. I would like to play until I am 39 or 40, but we will just have to wait and see."

Boxer's Lawyer To File Protest

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A Seattle attorney plans to ask that the Las Vegas boxing match in which Seattle's Eddie Cotton lost to Jose Torres in a 15-round decision be declared a no-contest match.

Clay Nixon, the attorney, said he was acting on behalf of Cotton and his manager, George Chermers.

Nixon said the basis of the protest would be a television videotape which, he said, shows that the 14th round of the light heavyweight championship bout was "a minimum of 20 seconds short."

Trick-Shooter To Attack Cong with Golf Balls

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Hahn is preparing to attack the Communist Viet Cong with one of capitalism's most bourgeois weapons — golf balls.

For two weeks, beginning

Sept. 24, the famed trick-shot artist will pelt the balls—50 dozen of them, 600 in all, inscribed with the word Peace—into the infested jungles.

Then he'll sit back and watch the fun.

"I hardly expect it to change the course of the war," the handsome entertainer said today. "But I'll tell you one thing —it'll drive those fellows bat-ty."

Hahn's primary purpose in visiting Viet Nam is to entertain Uncle Sam's military men there with his clever and remarkable repertoire that has fascinated golfers and non-golfers throughout the world.

"I'll give my show and then belt the balls into the thickets," Hahn explained. "These all will be brand new, tournament type balls that sell for a buck and a quarter retail in the United States. They won't be cut-up mullets. They will have been struck only once."

"But nobody will dare shag them. And I doubt if the Viet Cong would get near one of them. They'd think they were a booby-trap for sure."

"If anyone does pick a ball up, he'll find the word Peace written on it. It may start him thinking. Maybe the Viet Cong all will desert and come over here to be caddies."

The dark, curly-haired Hahn has not lacked for imagination or enterprise since he quit the tour in 1948 — "I didn't make enough money to make my ball," he says—and turned to the entertainment phase of the game.

Hahn carries a bag that weighs 90 pounds. He hits perfect shots with garden rakes. He swings shafts made of rubber hose. He hits 225 yard drives, standing on one foot, on his knees and with one foot on a folding chair. With rare precision, he picks off three balls swinging on a string like a pendulum.

Once he used to drive balls off the teeth of pretty helpers while blindfolded, but had to give this up when others attempted the feat and fractured a few jaws.

"If I could get a Viet Cong to submit, I might reinstitute it in my act," Hahn said.

Citation, horse of the year in 1948, won 19 of his 20 races and finished second in the one he lost.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — NBC's "Get Smart" turned into an instant hit last season because it kidded one of television's most popular art forms, the secret super-agent shows.

CBS's "Run, Buddy, Run" soon will be aimed in the same comic direction, except it spoofs TV's "running man" shows, like "The Fugitive."

In the forthcoming Monday night series, Buddy is a timid fellow who accidentally overhears, in the steam room of a Turkish bath, some crime overlord plotting the demise of the competition. Buddy is discovered and for the next 25 shows, at least, will be on the lam.

The series may also be taking some satiric swipes at a more sensitive subject: big business. And with a lot of big businesses sponsoring television shows this could be as dangerous as making snide jokes about motherhood and the flag.

The show has the crime syndicate chief acting like a corporation president, deeply concerned with tax write-offs, incentive plans and fringe benefits for his goons, and dedicated to educating his son, Junior, to step into his shoes.

Buddy is played by a hip-talking trumpet player named Jack Sheldon who attracted favorable notice a couple of seasons back when he played a hip-talking trumpet player in the late, unlamented "Cora Williams Show."

This week Jack is involved in an episode in which he is hiding out as an exercise boy in a racing stable, disguised in outsize jockey silks.

In recent weeks he has been a gas station grease monkey, a chore boy on an expensive health farm, a performing waiter (trumpet) in a night club. In the course of one stunt he managed to fracture an elbow and wrist.

"That hung up production for a week," he reported casually. "It would have been longer but we hunted around until we found a doc who would put me in splints instead of casts and luckily I knit fast."

Sheldon, 35, played trumpet in Stan Kenton's band nine years ago. Later he discovered he had a pleasant singing voice and, still later, learned he could get laughs from nightclub audiences by ad libbing.

But he is still unsure of himself as an actor. Recently, an acting teacher for him was imported from New York.

"Mostly he tells me to relax," said Sheldon. "And sometimes he tells me to concentrate on things so my face will look right for the camera — things like pretending I'm smelling lilacs."

"Then he goes off some place else, like to look at the girls, and I sit there squinting like an idiot trying to smell lilacs. The worst of it is, sometimes I really do smell them."

His co-star is Bruce Gordon, type-cast as the tycoon gangster. After all, Gordon spent four years playing bad guy Frank Nitti in "The Untouchables."

Miami Tapped Mid-Am Power

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Miami looks like the team to beat but a wild scramble could develop in the Mid-American Conference race for 1966 football honors.

Coach Bo Schembechler's Redskins finished in a flourish after losing three of their first four games and shared last year's title with Bowling Green on 5-1 records.

The man who led the attack, quarterback Bruce Matte, is back again and that could spell the difference.

Bowling Green Coach Bob Gibson, one of the seven MAC mentors here to preview their grid prospects, summed it up best when he said:

"You can't be a real contender without a solid quarterback."

Miami has the best in all-league Matte and otherwise only Ohio University, which lost all 10 last year, and Western Michigan, claim their quarterbacking is adequate.

The other loop members, Kent State, Toledo, Marshall and Bowling Green, will have to go with untested signal-callers.

All the coaches agree on one thing — the conference is more balanced than ever before and there are no patsties.

"Everyone in the league has the type of team that can challenge for the championship," said Frank Lautnerbur of Toledo.

Here are capsule comments from the coaches on the outlook for the upcoming campaign:

Lautnerbur, Toledo — We have a young club with only four seniors among or 22 starters. Biggest loss is All-MAC end Fred Zimmerman.

Gibson, Bowling Green — We will be better than last year but may not do so well because the conference is stronger. Our backfield speed is better but we have to improve our offense.

Leo Strang, Kent State — Our team if relatively young with 26 juniors. We could be the biggest team in the league but I don't know if we have the speed. Defensively, most of the team is intact. We think we can make a good showing against anyone.

Charles Snyder, Marshall — Our defense is inexperienced and we must find a quarterback. George Hummel, a soph from Logan, is a good punter and an outstanding athlete. He'll play as a defensive back.

Schembechler, Miami — Matte is the key. He's a good passer and a fine, scrambling runner with good leadership qualities. We have to fill some holes in the line and defense is our big problem.

Bill Hess, Ohio University — Our offense is revamped and we now operate completely from the I-formation. Fullback Wash Lyons, hurt almost all of last season, is 100 per cent. We have every hope of having a winning season.

Bill Doolittle, Western Michigan — We are going to win it. Defensively, we hope to be strong but we have to replace 17 seniors and have offensive shortcomings.

State Patrol Appreciates FOPA Radio

The Fraternal Order of Police has donated a Citizen's Band radio to the State Highway Patrol with the desire that the set remain at the Circleville Post.

The Pickaway County State Patrol Auxiliary started the ball rolling when they presented the idea to the FOPA. The Police Auxiliary unit bought the CB set and installed it at no charge to the post.

The set will be used to aid stranded or out-of-city motorists who seek assistance. Sgt. J. W. Pribble, commander of the local post, said the set was needed in this area due to increased traffic on Routes 23 and 71.

Only motorists with CB receivers in their cars will be able to take advantage of the service. The set at the post will be manned 24 hours a day and will answer emergency calls.

However, Sgt. Pribble points out, this station does not involve a "club." It is licensed to operate by the Federal Communications Commission.

Mercer Area Sees Rhodes In 'Non-Campaign' Role

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes began his typical "non-campaigning" day in his office at 7 a.m.

Before it was over Wednesday night, he attended two county fairs, dedicated a new seven-acre office-warehouse building and the first airport hard surfaced and lighted with state bond issue funds.

Rhodes told more than 1,500 townspeople and factory workers at the Avco New Idea farm implement plant in Coldwater, Mercer County, that the warehouse and nearby Lakefield airport were part of Ohio's drive to generate more and better jobs.

Between ceremonies, the governor visited the Mercer County Fair in Celina to shake hands, sign autographs, watch a high school band contest eat a lunch of corn and corn shared with teenagers.

Although the Republican governor greeted workers in both GOP and Democratic booths at the fair, the only time politics received official notice was at the warehouse dedication. And then it came indirectly.

Avco President James R. Kerr, noting that company directors recently approved his tenure, said that he was in a somewhat better position than the Ohio governor, an observation that drew laughter from the sunbaked audience.

Rhodes has insisted all along that he would not officially open his campaign for re-election to another four-year term until after Labor Day, although his Democratic opponent and other party candidates for statewide office already are barnstorming the state.

GOP State Headquarters said Wednesday Rhodes has agreed to lead a tour of Republican incumbents by bus, car and plane over the state starting Sept. 12.

Returning from Lakefield to the Statehouse in late afternoon, Rhodes caught up on accumulated office work and headed for the Franklin County Fair in nearby Hilliard.

Wives of Candidates Reported 'Recovering'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The wife of State Sen. Frazier Reams Jr., was "recovering normally" Wednesday after surgery in Toledo, and the wife of Gov. James A. Rhodes was home after hospitalization here.

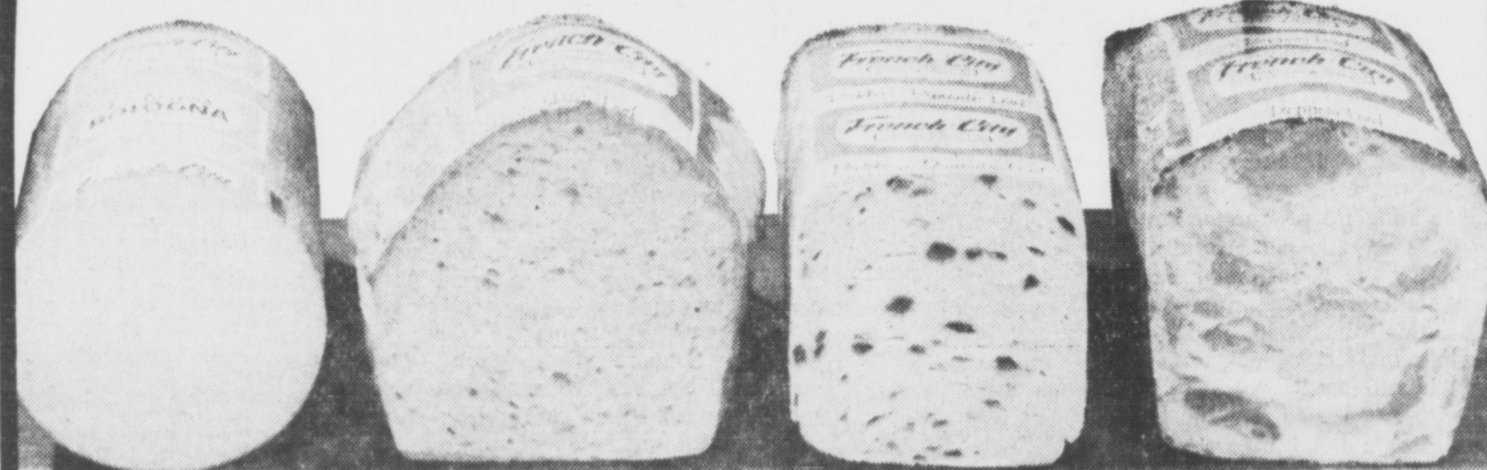

Dr. Robert W. Muenzer of Toledo said a two-hour operation on Susan Reams was "completely successful." Reams, Democratic candidate for governor, planned to resume campaigning today after canceling appearances to be with his wife.
